Services for Wheeler
Stated for Thursday
Columbus, Ohio, September 5.—(P)—Funeral services for Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon league of America, who died today at Battle Creek, Mich., will be held at the Central M. E. church, Columbus, at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon, it was announced tonight by Dr. Francis Scott McBride, general superintendent of the league.
The Rev. A. G. Schatzmann will have charge of the service. Other speakers will be Mr. McBride, Dr. Howard H. Russell, and Dr. Ernest A. Cherrington. Burial will be here inside his wife.

Battle Creek, Mich., September 5.—(P)—Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League of America, died at Battle Creek sanitarium late this afternoon. He was taken to the sanitarium three days ago from his summer home at Little Pointe Shale, Mich.
Wheeler was taken ill last Thursday with a kidney ailment, from which he had been undergoing treatment for several years. He was removed from his home to a hospital and, after an examination, rushed to the sanitarium, where it was at first decided to perform an operation.
Wheeler apparently responded rapidly to treatment, however, and showed so much improvement yesterday that it was decided not to operate.
A bulletin issued late last night by his physician, Dr. Lloyd E. Verity, said the dry leader's condition had improved to such an extent that he was thought he would be out of danger within a few days.
Today, however, he took a sudden turn for the worse and he sank rapidly, dying at 5 p. m.
Members of Wheeler's family were at the bedside when death occurred. Wheeler had told his physicians that he felt much better and had asked permission to read in his bed. A nurse handed him a book and as he lifted it, fell forward, dying instantly. Dr. Verity declared death was due to a heart attack aggravated by the kidney trouble.
Body To Go to Columbus.
The body was taken to a local undertaking establishment and will be accompanied to Columbus by one son and a friend, Dr. Howard Hyde Russell, Tuesday morning.
Death occurred at 3:20 o'clock this afternoon.
Wheeler's death followed that of his wife a few weeks ago.
Mrs. Wheeler was fatally burned in an oil-stove explosion at the Wheel-

Crowd of 3,000 Sees Old Marks Fall as Atlanta's Premier Swimmers Battle in The Constitution Meet

Above are scenes of the 1927 Constitution swimming championship meet held Monday afternoon at Piedmont lake. The top picture shows some of the thousands who lined the banks of the lake during the events. This photo was taken during the diving contest. Next is E. L. Schroeder, who tied for high point honors in the men's events and on his right is C. E. Holcomb, winner of the high point laurels in the boys' division. Red Holleman, who clipped a few seconds off the 220-yard record, is shown about to take to the water. The young lady standing is Maud Battle, who carried off high point honors in the women's division. Mary Garrett is shown on her right. Miss Garrett won first place in the 25-yard event for girls, second place in the 100 and third place in the 75, only to be nosed out for high point honors by Nettie Pearl Strickland.

It rained a bit. Now and again thunder crashed down from lowering clouds, but 3,000 spectators stood their ground on the banks of Piedmont lake Monday afternoon as Atlanta's swimmers flashed and foamed from starting board and diving tower in the greatest swimming meet in the history of the city.
From 2 o'clock until nearly 6 there was a continual procession of swimmers from the starting board to the finish line and from the tower to the water in a splash of spray and back to the tower again. The swimmers gave their best and the crowd cheered to the echo of the starter's gun as one thrilling race followed another through the afternoon.
Eight and forty men and women and boys and girls are busy tonight showing their medals to friends and a hundred times that many sports fans are talking about the greatest swimming carnival ever held since Marchville turned to Atlanta and there were no swimming pools.
The Piedmont Park team won the right to have its name carved on the huge Park's Department trophy while Maddox Park came second, Grant, third, and Oakland City fourth in the team competition.
In the men's division, the Messers, Schroeder and Rahner tied for high

CURTAIN OF LIFE DROPS FOR LOEW
Vaudeville and Movie Owner Passes Away at New York Home After Illness of Months.
BY SAM LOVE.
New York, September 5.—(United News).—Marcus Loew, dominant figure in the motion picture and vaudeville world, died in his sleep shortly before 7 o'clock this morning at the age of 55.
Loew's struggle upward from the East Side of New York to a position in the amusement world comparable to that of the late Elbert H. Gary in the steel corporation, wore out his heart.
He died in his residence, of palatial proportions and trappings, at Pembroke on Long Island sound. His wealth was estimated in the millions. He was the head of some 100 corporations centering in the motion picture and vaudeville business. He was still young and enjoying the consolidation of his vast success after disheartening failures that attended his youthful business ventures on the East Side. Not long ago his heart began to give him warning, which Loew at first refused to heed.
About two weeks ago he visited Saratoga Springs in an effort to benefit his health. He returned Sunday on his yacht, the Caroline, to Pembroke and was brought ashore at the dock up his estate. His condition was recognized as critical and a doctor and a nurse remained with him through the night. His twin sons, Arthur and David and his wife, Mrs. Caroline Loew, were also with him constantly.
Announced at Office.
His death first was announced from the offices of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, of which he was the head.
Loew enjoyed unusual and widespread confidence in his personal integrity and ability. During the expansion necessitated by the general plan of his enterprises during the past few years, thousands of persons, including his own employees, invested in stock in his enterprises. Labor day was a holiday in Wall street, and the immediate reaction of financial circles to the death of the outstanding figure in one of the nation's greatest industries could not be ascertained.
Loew was, in stature, rather small. His mouth, partially concealed by a close-cropped moustache, was wide, full-lipped and occasionally marked by a whimsical smile. His eyes were

HOPE IS REVIVED FOR PAUL REDFERN
Steamer Docking at New Orleans Reports Brunswick Plane Was Sighted August 26.
Renewed hope that Paul Redfern, who hopped off from Brunswick, who reached the coast or mainland of Venezuela, is contained in an Associated Press dispatch received from New Orleans, where the Norwegian steamship Christian Krogh reported that it sighted Redfern's airplane on August 26, when he was within 165 miles of the South American coast.
The officers of the steamship stated in New Orleans that the flier after asking the direction to nearest land, identified himself by throwing to the vessel a card upon which was written "Redfern, Thanks."
In a dispatch from Trinidad printed several days ago in The Constitution the sighting of the plane by the Christian Krogh was given as Thursday, the same day Redfern left Brunswick, but the report from New Orleans definitely establishes the date as Friday, more than 24 hours after Redfern left Brunswick.
The dispatch, which tells how the plane circled the steamship seeking directions, follows:

NEGRO IS KILLED AFTER SHOOTING FOUR POLICEMEN
Evansville, Ind., September 5.—(P)—Wesley Cooksey, crazed negro, who shot four police officers here this afternoon from his barricaded home, was dragged dead from the house at 8:10 o'clock tonight after officers had set fire to the home and then poured volley after volley of rifle bullets into the blazing building.
The wounded included Chief of Police Harry Anderson and Chief of Detectives Howard Sutheimer, with Sutheimer and Patrolman Langford probably fatally hurt.
The police attempted to arrest Harry Johnson, negro, after he had threatened to kill his wife. Reserves were called for before another rush at the barricaded house was made.

LOWMAN ASSAILS GOVERNOR SMITH
New York's Failure To Provide Enforcement Laws for Prohibition Is Scored in Address.
Buffalo, N. Y., September 5.—(P)—An attack on Governor Smith and other New York state officials for failure to provide enforcement laws and a plan to the general public to help solve enforcement problems by reporting to Washington if they "know of a still or a brewery anywhere" were made here today by Assistant Secretary Lowman, of the treasury, in charge of prohibition.
Despite lack of state enforcement laws, he said in an address before an annual outing of the Methodist Episcopal churches of western New York, temperance and sobriety were on the wane in New York and everywhere else.
Declaring that with prohibition a joint responsibility was placed upon the nation and the states to carry out, he asked what New York had done about it.
"You know," he said, adding: "Under the leadership of Alfred Emanuel Smith, our governor, who now wants to be president, every law on the statute books of New York state dealing with the liquor traffic was repealed, except the provision that it is a misdemeanor to be found drunk in a public place."
"They evidently overlooked that law or it would have gone too."
Explaining why the federal government does not step in and police New York, Mr. Lowman declared that, in the face of "open opposition of the state and local officers, it would require an army of 30,000 prohibition

ATLANTA CONTROLS CANDLER AIR PORT

Unhampered Authority Ceded to City After Meeting With Hapeville Council.

Atlanta was given unqualified and unhampered administration of Candler field, Atlanta's air port, Monday night by a special vote of the Hapeville city council, thus clearing a disputed question which arose when the Georgia legislature permitted Hapeville to annex the territory and Atlanta to administer it as an airplane landing field.
Alderman William B. Hartsfield, of the third ward and chairman of the aviation committee of city council, presented the question to the Hapeville council at its session Monday night.
He outlined the advantages of operation of the field by the city of Atlanta at the very door of Hapeville, and declared that the contractual authority of the city of Atlanta would become very much involved and that concerns would be reluctant to make capital outlays unless Atlanta had complete and unhampered control over the field.
The city could not purchase the property on which it and Fulton county already have spent nearly $100,000 and would be forced to abandon it if the city of Hapeville takes an arbitrary stand in the matter of insuring that it come into this city and be administered as a part of the city," Mr. Hartsfield declared.
Members of the Hapeville council expressed a keen desire to cooperate in any way possible in maintaining and operating the field, and agreed to a proposal that Atlanta pave sidewalk stretches on Virginia avenue and police the grounds.
A resolution to that effect was passed unanimously on motion of Councilman George Moody and seconded by Councilman Treadwell.
Commissioner Walter Stewart made a plea for an amicable settlement of the matter, declaring "Fulton county has invested in the field and will continue to do so if the matter of authority and contractual rights of Atlanta are definitely decided."
Henderson Hallman and John Ottley, president and vice president, respectively, of the Atlanta branch of the National Aeronautical association, also spoke.
Councilman Tom Smith, member of the Atlanta aviation committee; Councilman Charles Chosewood, chairman of the streets committee of city council, and William A. Hassell, chief of construction of the city of Atlanta, also asked that Hapeville guarantee that Atlanta should operate the field as a separate and distinct property of the Gate City.

LEVINE PREPARED FOR RETURN TRIP TO NEW YORK CITY

Mable Boll, Diamond Queen, Offers $25,000 for Seat in Columbia on Trip.

WOMAN ON PLANE OPPOSED BY PILOT

Royal Windsor, Sir John Carling and Old Glory Are Due for Departure Today.

BY UNITED NEWS.
Six trans-Atlantic fliers—three on each side—hope, that increasingly favorable weather conditions will permit them to start their long ocean flights Tuesday.
The London, Ontario-London, England plane, "Sir John Carling," arrived at Harbor Grace, N. F., to be fueled.
The Windsor, Ontario-Windsor, England plane, "Royal Windsor," is scheduled to leave Scarborough flying field, Maine, at dawn.
Lloyd Bertaud's "Old Glory" is to start its Rome flight between 10 a. m. and 3 p. m. Tuesday if weather permits.
Captain R. H. McIntosh believes he will be able to leave Baldonnel field, Dublin, for Philadelphia, at dawn.
Charles A. Levine hopes at the same time to leave Cranwell, England, for New York. Frank T. Courtney intends to resume his Plymouth, England-New York flight if weather indications at Corunna, Spain, are good.
No word has been received of the fate of Paul Redfern, missing on his Brunswick, Ga.-Rio de Janeiro flight, or of the St. Raphael, unheard of since it was in mid-Atlantic with Princess Anne, of Lowenstein-Wertheim on its Upavon, England-Ottawa, Canada, flight.
MABEL BOLL CAUSES LEVINE MORE TROUBLE.
BY C. F. WILLIAMSON.
Cranwell, England, September 6.—(United News).—(Tuesday)—Undeterred by the fate of Princess Anne, of Lowenstein-Wertheim, first trans-Atlantic aerial passenger, Miss Mabel Boll, Parisian-American, was ready today to start for New York in six hours as a passenger in Charles A. Levine's monoplane.
Shortly after midnight W. G. R. Hinchliffe, Levine's new pilot, announced that "rain or shine" the monoplane would start from here for New York this morning.
At 1 o'clock Miss Boll arrived at Cranwell, ready to fly, in company with Levine.
"I am ready to make the flight, and I am going to go, if I can be crowded into the plane," she said to the United News. "The only question is whether the necessity for a large supply of gasoline will permit it."
"That's right," corroborated Levine. "You remember Miss Boll offered me $25,000 to be permitted to accompany me back from Le Bourget field, Paris, when I had my plane there."
"I refused then, but I am reconsidering now."
"If I find we can take Miss Boll along, I'm going to give the $25,000 to Hinchliffe as prize money for piloting the plane."
Hinchliffe was scornful. He informed that Miss Boll might be a passenger, and promptly tossed a gloom bomb at her. "The flying field of trans-Atlantic death or glory."
"A woman?" he asked scornfully.

PARADE FEATURE OF LABOR DAY
Mighty hosts of labor streamed through Atlanta's streets Monday to the measured beat of drum corps, the blare of bands and the cheers of thousands of people who lined the sidewalks to witness one of the greatest and most colorful Labor day parades seen in the city's history. All labor organizations of the Atlanta district participated and after the parade adjourned to Grant park and Lakeview park to carry out an extensive program in observance of the holiday set aside for the working men of the country.
Several thousand people took part in the huge parade and numerous floats, some of them as imposing and as pretentious as those of the famous New Orleans march, were displayed in the line of march. The bands and half a dozen drum corps

WOMEN WILL SOON WEAR NO. 9 OR 10 SHOES, SAYS MEDIC

Chicago, September 5.—(United Press.)—In the opinion of Dr. Otto F. Schuster, of New York, women's feet are getting larger and the average female foot of the future will take a No. 9 or 10 shoe.

Addressing the Illinois Association of Chiropractors, he blamed golf, tennis, hiking and other sports for this, but believed it was a healthy trend.

Dr. Schuster said there were only 100 pairs of healthy feet in the United States.

Elaborate Floats Vie in Labor Parade

Thousands of Atlantans thrilled Monday as the magnificent floats pictured above swept grandly through the downtown section in the Labor day parade. Some of the best of the floats are shown here, though there were many others in the parade that vied closely for high honors. One of the most unusual floats was that of the "Spirit of Atlanta," a monoplane, pictured in the upper right hand corner. All of the floats received hearty applause from the many Atlantans who viewed the parade.

provided the martial strains for the marchers.

Forming on the streets adjacent to the state capitol, the long parade moved into Whitehall street at Mitchell and then proceeded northward into Peachtree to Baker street. A complete turn was made at Baker street and as the leaders in the parade were marching back on Peachtree at Five Points the rear of the parade was still moving northward.

Gala Day Enjoyed. With the members of the labor organizations participating actively in the parade and in the program at Grant and Lakewood parks the entire city declared a holiday and enjoyed the principal entertainment features of the day. Loew's Grand theater gave extra performances as well as other downtown theaters, including the Capitol and Georgia. Crowds thronged the streets during the afternoon while many people enjoyed picnic parties and automobile trips. The city parks were turned over to the merry-makers and all swimming fees and other special fees charged for park amusements were suspended for the holiday.

Special programs for the entertainment of the members of the labor organizations, their families, friends and visitors were carried out in the afternoon at Grant and Lakewood parks. Baseball games, band concerts and a series of athletic events were featured at both parks. A display of fireworks was the final feature of the Lakewood program, coming after motorcycle races and an "old Ford" race. The Grant park program was under the auspices of the Federation of Labor, while the Lakewood park features were offered under the auspices of the Southeastern Fair association.

Heading the big Labor day parade was a detachment of mounted police led by Chief of Police James L. Beavers. Leading the parade proper was Grand Marshal William Strauss, accompanied by his aides. Special automobiles carried high officials of the labor organizations, city, county and state officials and officers of prominent organizations participating in the event. "2. We are glad that the Atlanta Federation of Labor arranged to celebrate this day with an extensive program, including a parade by various divisions of labor, speaking by distinguished citizens and athletic sports.

"3. We are delighted that the relations of labor and capital have been in greater harmony during the past year than ever, as shown by the decrease in strikes, and we express the hope that the time will soon come when labor troubles will be settled entirely on the basis of the Golden Rule.

"4. We believe that church and labor are also closer together than ever, and we feel sure that the interchange of ministers and the leaders of labor on public and pulp platforms will result in great good both to religion and industry—our common interest."

It is great to have a clear skin

A clear skin means everything to the popularity of men and women. You cannot get it with external applications. If you are unfortunate enough to have pimples or skin blemishes, in justice to your friends and yourself, you should treat the source of the trouble. Nature will then provide the complexion which is so much desired.

Thousands have been enabled to free themselves of unsightly blemishes and painful annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

You owe it to yourself to try S.S.S. It helps Nature build up red corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the blood is nourished.

"I suffered from impure blood—was weak, and had lost so much weight. I didn't look natural. I had pimples and was also bothered with a breaking-out that itched terribly. I also had boils one after another. I tried different kinds of remedies, but nothing did me any good until a friend advised me to take S.S.S., which I did. This was some time ago. Now I feel well, and I am getting along fine. S.S.S. stopped the itching and it cured me of boils. I advise all weak and run-down people to give S.S.S. a trial. It clears up the skin and makes you strong and fills you with energy."

Mrs. J. W. Barker, 1337 Walnut St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

S.S.S. is made from the fresh roots of medicinal herbs and plants, and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory. It is time-tried and reliable.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.—(adv.)

Hands! I'm your friend In Dishwashing

YOU can plunge into hot greasy water as often as you like if you put me in first.

Here's why: First, there's nothing about me to hurt.

Second, I wrap the grease up so that it doesn't touch your skin. A chemist would use a lot of big words such as colloidal action, saponification, and emulsification. But what really happens is that I wrap up every particle of grease so that you can plunge into apparently dirty water and not be touched by the grease itself.

largest ever grown before in the state, 40,000,000 pounds selling for $9,500,000. The next largest year was 1925, when 30,000,000 pounds sold for $7,110,000.

The report states that 29 warehouses closed for the season with Friday's sales, there remaining only something like a half dozen open this week, at the end of which the sales for this season are expected to be concluded.

Tobacco is grown in 65 south Georgia counties by approximately 15,000 farmers. It was started during the war as an experiment and now has grown to be the second crop in value in the state, ranking next to cotton in importance.

The area is rapidly spreading throughout Georgia and it is expected that in 1928 the territory planted in tobacco will be largely increased, the area extending northward to the middle section farther than ever before.

NORTH AND SOUTH POWER CONNECTED FINANCING NOTES

Charlotte, N. C., September 5.—(AP)—The great superpower system that in emergencies serves southern states today was further extended by connection of northern steam plants with the lines that supply current to the great industrial plants of the south.

Announcement was made at the offices of the Southern Power company here that a switch connecting the transmission line between the northern steam plants and the southern waterpower lines was thrown at Roxboro, N. C., today, connecting the lines between Raleigh, N. C., and Roanoke, Va.

The southern plants, in flush water periods, will be able to send power north to conserve coal and when water is low the northern plants will supply power for the south. The system extends from Mobile, Ala., to Chicago, with the lines of a number of companies connected.

Seven great power companies in Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania were linked by the switch at Roxboro, it was announced.

S. OFFERS FINANCING NOTES

Washington, September 5.—(AP)—More than half a billion dollars of note and certificates of indebtedness were offered by the treasury today in announcing its September 15 or third quarter financing program.

There are two issues, consisting of approximately $250,000,000 in six months 3 per cent treasury certificates of indebtedness and about $250,000,000 for cash and a limited amount for exchange in three to five year 3 1/2 per cent treasury notes. Both offerings are dated September 15.

Subscriptions for the certificates and cash subscriptions for the notes are invited at par and accrued interest, while the exchange subscriptions are offered at 100-1-8.

In addition to the cash offering of notes, these securities will be exchanged for second Liberty loan converted 4 1/4 per cent bonds, the amount for exchange to be limited only by the amount of the second 4 1/4s tendered and accepted. There are $1,180,024,000 of these bonds outstanding. The exchange offering, which is virtually the same as that of March 15 last, except for the premium, was said to be "in furtherance of the treasury's refunding program."

Interest on any second 4 1/4s surrendered and accepted upon allotted exchange subscriptions will be paid in full to November 15, 1927, when all bonds of the second Liberty loan have been called for redemption. Subscribers offering the 4 1/4s for the new notes will be paid interest from May 15 to November 15, less the amount of the premium on the notes issued.

Treasury certificates of indebtedness of series TS-1927 and TS-2-1927, both maturing September 15, will be accepted at Federal Reserve banks at par in payment for the new certificates, at accrued interest to be adjusted on the series so paid for. The old certificates also will be accepted in payment for any of the new notes, series B-1930-32, which are allotted for cash.

The exchange offering of notes will be kept open until September 29, while the certificates and cash offering of notes will probably be available for only a few days.

The treasury took occasion again to call attention that about $1,200,000,000 of second Liberty loan bonds are at present outstanding and will cease to bear interest on November 15.

ARMY MANEUVERS OF THREE NATIONS STAGED ON BALTIC

BY GEORGE SELDES.

(Copyright, 1927, by The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)
Berlin, September 5.—The Baltic sea has become the scene of army maneuvers of three nations. Germany today joined Russia and Great Britain in conducting mimic warfare in what may prove a new theater of war should certain plans for encircling Russia mature.

Russia is manuevering with all its forces with Leningrad the base. Great Britain is using seaplanes for Baltic reconnoitering, and now Germany has sent crack divisions to east Prussia, operating from Eylau, near Koenigsberg.

Laemello started up the steps. There was a roar, and Laemello, fell, dying almost instantly.

"PEOPLE LOVE ME FOR MY ENEMIES," HEFLIN DECLARES

Gadsden, Ala., September 5.—(AP)—Speaking at a Labor day celebration today, Senator J. Thomas Heflin, of Alabama, paid a high tribute to the wage earner and pledged his best efforts to protect and advance their interests. The greater part of his speech, however, was devoted to a discussion of the Catholic church, "Grover Cleveland," he said, "was loved by the people for the enemies he had made," and the senator said the people of Alabama love him for the enemies he has made. In the course of his speech, the senator said, "the same elements which are now fighting him killed Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley and shot down Roosevelt."

Made by the famous International Wet-Blending Process. Lone Star Cement has established a new high standard of quality and uniformity.

Why PROTECT the car and RISK the child?

PUBLIC school children in the United States outnumber the country's automobiles by three million. Children—25,200,000. Cars—22,001,393.

We house our cars in garages made fireproof with concrete walls and floors. As a result the number of automobiles destroyed by fire is relatively small.

Our children—are we as careful about them? The figures speak for themselves. There are eight school fires every day of the school year. The annual loss in money is more than $25,000,000. Thousands of our schools are virtual fire traps. The risk of fire, with its horrifying consequences, is ever present.

Guard against this real danger by building schools of concrete. Concrete is fireproof. It is the safe material for school buildings, inside and out. Insist on it. Use concrete made of Lone Star Cement—a cement the proven quality and uniformity of which has established a new high standard throughout the United States east of the Rocky Mountains.

5 ARRESTS SEEN IN FLOGGING CASE

Jefferson, Ga., September 5.—(AP) The early arrest of five men accused of being members of the masked mob which flogged Will Shockley, negro, and members of his family last Thursday, near Johnson Mill, in Jackson county, is expected some time this week, according to a statement given by Sheriff R. M. Culberson, of Jackson county. Sheriff Culberson says the men have been identified by the negro.

The arrests to be made, according to Sheriff Culberson, will be on warrants taken out by the negro.

The negro and his son were taken from their home to a distance in the country, made to disrobe and were brutally beaten with a heavy leather thong. According to Sheriff Culberson, he has been informed that the whipping was the result of the negro's refusal to leave the county after he had been warned to do so.

According to the story told by the negro he was in his bed when the masked mob entered his home. He asked the men what they were after, and one of them replied, "you" and hit him over the head with a revolver. The negro grabbed the man's hand which held the weapon, and as he did so another of the masked raiders hit him over the head with a revolver, and all but knocked him unconscious. The mob overpowered the negro's wife and his son and then carried the two men outside into two automobiles where they were carried seven miles into the country.

They were ordered to remove all their clothing and the lash was then applied. After the whipping the two negroes were told that if they did not leave the county soon "they would have more of this coming to them." Following the flogging the victims were left to make their way home the best way they could.

The regular term of the Jackson superior court will not be held before February and whether or not a special session will be called to make a probe of the flogging could not be learned, according to the Jackson county officer.

PLAN TO REDUCE OFFICERS TABLED

Members of the police committee of city council Monday afternoon lost in their effort to reduce a captain and two lieutenants of the department, to the ranks, when Mayor Pro Tem W. Guy Dobbs voted to table the proposal, thus breaking a 16 to 16 tie.

Alderman Charles Murphy, chairman of the committee, introduced a measure from the committee designed, he said, to effect a reduction only. It developed during the discussion that it was optional with the committee whether the services of the officers be retained or not, and this coupled with charges of political maneuver to pay off a political debt resulted in the successful move to table the proposal.

Council members Monday night predicted that the matter would be brought to the fore again at the next session, and that a concerted move to take the paper from the table and force its passage would be made.

While the 1927, or present committee solidly supported the recommendation to discontinue the officers, the 1926 committee joined the opposition and took an active part in the effort to forestall its favorable passage. Council was so evenly divided on the proposal that a vote of the mayor pro tem, the first in the past two years, was called to break the tie.

Alderman Charles M. Ford, of the tenth ward, led the fight against the proposal, and enlisted the active support of Alderman William B. Hartsfield, of the third ward, and chairman of the 1926 police committee of council.

Both branded the effort on the part of the present police committee as a political move, initiated by a desire to pay off, and Mr. Hartsfield even charged that the plot was to rid the department of certain officers who "have fallen into disfavor."

The vote to table the paper stood: Moon, Hartsfield, Gann, Buchanan, Ford, House, Warshaw, Loch, Turner, Huie, Barrett, Bowden, Hardy, Cooper, Smith, Saunders and Dobbs for and Pennington, Ashley, Couch, Murphy, Chosewood, Vaughan, York, Osburn, Moore, Orme, Reynolds, Russell, Savage, Callaway, Sudderth and Johnson against.

William Vanderbilt Reweds Mrs. Barclay Warburton Is Second Wife; Weds in Mayor's Office Three Months After Divorce

MRS. BARCLAY WARBURTON AND WILLIAM K. VANDERBILT

(Copyright, 1927, by the Constitution and the Atlanta Journal.)
Paris, September 5.—With almost painful simplicity, William Kissam Vanderbilt, III, and Rosamond Lancaster Warburton, Barclay H. Warburton's divorced wife, today went through the civil marriage ceremony and tonight dropped out of sight again.

Mr. Vanderbilt and his bride, it is understood, headed south on a motor trip that is expected to take them to Italy, where at some point they will join the Vanderbilt yacht Ara, on which they cruised most of last spring along the Mediterranean while Vanderbilt's awaited divorce from Virginia Fair Vanderbilt was being rushed through the Paris courts.

The latest Mrs. Vanderbilt received one of the most glittering crowns of the American social register with an astonishing lack of pomp. Only six people stood up at the "Salle Des Mariages" in the city hall in the fashionable 16th Arrondissement while Mayor Rene Bloch, with a red-white-and-blue sash around his waist, read the state service. The ceremony would have been quite dull if it had not been for M. Bloch's fancy, which led him to interpolate a bushel of pretty remarks which he climaxed with the quotation from Poe—"May you grow in age and love together."

With his step-mother, Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Sr., the bridegroom drove up to the city hall a few minutes ahead of time and handed the mayor 100,000 francs ($3,910) for charity as is customary when there is

MORE WITNESSES AID MRS. WILLIS

Greenville, S. C., September 5.—(AP) Six more witnesses today spun their threads of testimony into the fabric of innocence defense attorneys are trying to weave for Mrs. Ethel Willis and Henry S. Townsend, on trial for the murder of the former's husband, Sheriff Sam D. Willis.

Besides these six, five other witnesses testified of the good reputation borne by J. M. Townsend, former policeman of Greenwood and Ninety Six, who on Friday swore that his son, the defendant, was at home abed when the sheriff was shot down near his garage door with four steel-jacketed bullets in the head and body.

Only one session of court was held today on account of the illness of James H. Price, one of the attorneys for the co-defendants. Judge Milledge L. Bonham, with the consent of state attorneys, adjourned court shortly before 1 o'clock until 9:30 o'clock tomorrow, directing Sheriff Carlos A. Rector to take the jurors to a base ball game. This was the twelfth day that jurors had been sequestered.

Miss Viola Keistler, petite brunette lodger in the Willis home, appeared in the role of a surprise witness, as she had been subpoenaed originally by the prosecution. Self-possessed and in a clear voice the little stateswoman gave testimony on the following points:

"Mrs. Willis came to her room and gave the alarm within two or three minutes of the shooting. The state contended that five minutes elapsed during which it has tried to prove Mrs. Willis could have been present at the shooting of her husband and then gone into the house and undressed before giving the alarm."

"The witness did not hear any one enter the Willis home although she was awake at the time of the shooting and her room was in the rear of the building near the garage."

Miss Grace Williams, who testified for the state, did not accompany Mrs. Willis out of the house and part way up the drive toward the garage as she related on the stand, according to the recollection of Miss Keistler, who said she was the one with the defendant. She said she did not see Miss Williams in the yard.

Mrs. J. T. Roe and her daughter, Betty, had testified for the defense that they entered the garage and could have made the woman's footprints by which the state has attempted to connect Mrs. Willis with the murder. Satterfield said further that he saw a number of men in the garage. On cross-examination he said first he saw a woman behind the door of the double garage that was closed, but later he contradicted this, asserting he saw men on either side of the door.

J. W. Austin, clerk in the office of a local cotton mill, said he arrived on the scene of the shooting almost immediately after the tragedy and saw Mrs. Willis asked him to take her to the body of her husband. He declared that he urged her to go into the house and wait until the body was brought in.

Austin also bore out Miss Keistler's testimony that she was the woman with Mrs. Willis. The witness said he did not see Miss Grace Williams.

Joe Patterson, foreman in a mill, testified to seeing Sheriff Willis, Mrs. Willis and Mrs. Henry Townsend drive away from the sheriff's house about 7:30 o'clock on the Saturday before the sheriff was killed.

Dennis Duster, a druggist, had said as a state witness that he saw Mrs. Willis and Townsend together with no third person in the automobile between 7 and 7:30 p. m. on that date. Patterson also testified that during Willis' first term as sheriff when the witness was a deputy, the sheriff had on occasions asked him to escort Mrs. Willis home or bring her back to the office. This evidence was apparently introduced by the defense to offset the testimony of prosecution witnesses that the two defendants were constantly in each other's society.

A war comrade of the slain officer and also of Townsend, Joe Smith, tire man of Laurens, testified that on the day of the killing Mrs. Willis had put her arms about him and kissed him while in a seeming paroxysm of grief over the loss of her husband. He declared he took the demonstration merely as an outburst of her sorrow.

Smith also testified to Townsend's apparent sorrow.

"Joe, I've lost one of the best friends I ever had," the witness quoted the defendant as saying.

No announcement has been made by the defense as to whether the defendants will take the stand.

AMERICA DEFENSE CHEAPLY SECURED, SUMMERALL SAYS

Providence, R. I., September 5.—(United News.)—American expenditure on national defense is much less than other nations, Major General Charles P. Summerall, chief of staff, told veterans of foreign wars today in a speech on preventive defense.

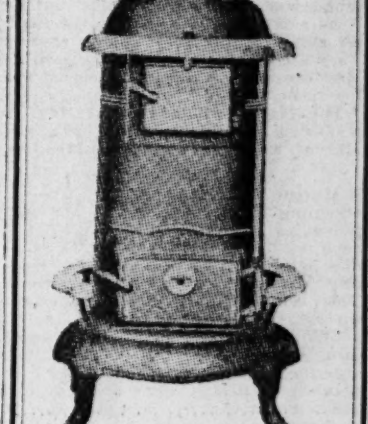

"In 1925 the national defense expenditures were but 0.10 per cent of our national wealth; extremely cheap insurance compared with 0.42 per cent in the British empire, 0.50 per cent in Japan, 0.33 per cent in France and 0.58 per cent in Italy," he said.

"We have less than one soldier for each one thousand of our population, as compared to Japan's 3.69, England's 3.49, Italy's 8.6 and France's 11.55."

Blood Full of Iron Resists Disease

Now Is Time To Build Up
Blood To Combat Dangers of Winter.

Mineral-Tone 75% Iron—
Natural Blood Builder.

It is common knowledge that in severe winter weather an extra strain is put upon our systems. Then particularly we need red corpuscles in the blood to fight disease. Famous authorities agree that these are best supplied by iron. Now is the time to build up the blood.

Doctors prescribe iron both in medicines and foods, but in no form has iron ever been found so effective or so easily absorbed by the blood as in Mineral-Tone, which is not a patent medicine but a natural mineral dug from the heart of a mountain. The iron in Mineral-Tone is so quickly taken up by the blood, in many cases users testify to results which seem almost miraculous.

"I've been laid up with rheumatism for nearly three years," says Mr. W. B. Hicks, of Stone Mountain, Ga. "At times it became right severe. I would have attacks of it in my shoulders, neck and back. I've been troubled so much with rheumatism I could not bend over to put on my shoes and I would have to have help in putting on my coat. I was troubled too with indigestion. I had it so regular I would carry soda in my pocket to try to get relief. Judge Davis, of Stone

Judge B. H. Davis, whose remarkable experience with Mineral-Tone caused him to recommend it to a host of friends in Stone Mountain.

Mountain, recommended Mineral-Tone to me and I used it for about three weeks. Mineral-Tone surely gave me great relief. It knocked out my rheumatism and I am feeling good again. It not only helped me for rheumatism but completely relieved me of stomach trouble. I am glad to recommend Mineral-Tone to my friends and feel sure it will help them."

This TOUGHER OIL protects today's motors effectively

YOU can't depend upon hit-or-miss oil buying to protect your modern engine from grinding friction. Today's motors run at higher speeds than ever before; they develop a scorching heat that soon thins inferior motor oils to the danger point. Then friction piles up the repair bills.

Don't take this costly chance with your car. It is needless. For the improved Pan-Am motor oil blended from paraffin-base crude makes lubrication certain. This tougher oil holds its body in spite of heat and friction. Thus it clings to cylinder walls and bearings, protecting them mile after mile.

Also ask for Pan-Am gasoline. It is clean. Dirt, corrosives and the carbon-forming elements found in many gasolines have been removed by the extra-careful Pan-Am refining process. This clean gasoline keeps your motor cleaner; gives it more snap and power. You'll also find it goes further.

These better motor products are for sale at all Pan-Am stations. No matter where you are, the Pan-Am sign marks a good place to trade. It is only issued to dealers whose reputation for fair dealing has been proved.

COUNCIL COMMITTEE GETS PENSION PLAN

Council Monday afternoon referred to the ordinance committee of city council a proposal to establish a pension system in all departments of the city government.

The paper came to the attention of council through Alderman Charles M. Ford, of the tenth ward, who offered and secured its passage through the Georgia assembly through the cooperation of members of the Fulton county delegation.

Provision is made for retirement on half pay of any employee of the city government after 25 years of continuous service in the event that the employee signifies his desire to accept a pension and pays two per cent of his salary into the pension fund.

Atlanta's mayor, city comptroller and city treasurer would be designated as trustees of the fund, under provision of the paper, and the money could not be diverted or used for any other purpose than payment of pensions.

CURTAIN DROPS FOR MARCUS LOEW

extraordinarily large and quite lacking in the steady glint usually associated with big business executives. He took little interest in honors, never postured and liked to work. He found work exciting.

As a boy on the squalid East Side, his ambition was to be a brand waiter. They seemed to live in another world. He once tried waiting but was fired for incompetence.

His father was Herman L. Loew, a Jewish immigrant from Vienna. Marcus was born May 7, 1872.

Quit School at 9.

Marcus had to give up his formal schooling at the age of 9. He sold papers, early and late and already had acquired a partnership with a peddler who had a horse and cart. They sold lemons to stores and saloons. This venture was to be Loew's last success for a long time.

While still in his teens, he plunged into the publishing business with another young man with a hand press for printing visiting cards and a foot press which enabled them to produce a weekly paper named the "East Side Advertiser." The paper reached a circulation of 500 before it expired.

Loew got a job in a fur factory that produced dress trimmings. He worked 11 hours a day turning a machine and at 16 was head of the fur department. Two years later, with several hundred dollars he had saved, he started a fur factory of his own. After 12 months of grueling labor he failed with liabilities of $8,000 and assets that left debts of $1,500.

Paid Creditors.

Though not legally liable under the bankruptcy proceedings, Loew regarded his creditors' claims as obligations. He became a salesman for a firm of furriers, earned $100 a week and by the time he was 23 had paid off all his debts.

He opened another fur house. The year 1895 came along—a year still mentioned with horror in the fur trade. Loew was not one of the eight fur firms in the United States to survive. But he was able to close his accounts with a favorable balance of $7.

The craze of velvet cloaks and capes, then in vogue, helped ruin the fur business, so Loew, recognizing a good thing, went into it as a jobber. His firm then discovered they could make velvet capes themselves at a lower price. The fur losses were recovered.

Loew had begun to perceive that amusement was a staple commodity, like green groceries. He also concluded that, while Barnum and Rickard had their following, the family trade brought amusements like they bought navy beans, with a single eye on getting their money's worth.

From that moment, Loew was a made man. The rest was detail.

The introduction of song and dance kept Loew's little houses full. He finally bought a real theater. It was an old burlesque house in Brooklyn known as the "Cosy Corner," long vacant but stamped with the reputation of burlesque.

Loew renovated it physically and renamed it the "Royal." He then renovated it spiritually by hiring Antonio Morio, an eminent Italian tragedian, to play a repertory season of Shakespeare and other classical plays. Loew lost $3,000 on the season, but he made the "Royal" respectable.

Then he ousted Morio and Shakespeare, substituted a snappy program of pictures and vaudeville at 10 cents a head, and made $10,000 the first year.

Expansion.

Learning all the time, Loew began to shed his small store shows and acquire real theaters. In 1908 he took over Blaney's Lincoln Square theater in New York, which had failed and closed, then the old Harlem Casino. Year by year he expanded his theater properties across the continent, until the Loew name shone in electric lights in Chicago, Toronto, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Washington, Boston, Buffalo, Montreal and elsewhere.

In 1919 he added 30 more theaters to his circuit, mostly in the Pacific states. Among the 60 theaters he owned in New York alone was the Broadway Loew's State, which opened in 1921.

His chains brought him into vaudeville. His chief organization became Loew's Inc., capitalized at $100,000, to conduct a vaudeville circuit.

As an exhibitor, he found himself at the mercy of the large moving picture interests. He had to pay for films what they charged. So finally in 1920, he went into the improved peep-show development which had been his first love and acquired the Metro Pictures corporation. In 1924 Metro was merged with the Goldenwyn corporation, followed by the inclusion of Louis B. Mayer's producing organization.

Successes.

"The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," which brought Valentino to fame; "Scaramouche," and more recently "The Big Parade," were among the successes.

Meanwhile Loew had married back in 1904 Miss Carrie Rosenheim, the daughter of David Rosenheim. He bought for a residence the magnificent estate of Joseph De Lamar known as Pembroke. It has Japanese gardens and Italian gardens, spacious conservatories, indoor swimming pools, shooting galleries, a pipe organ large enough for a cathedral and a billion theater seating 150.

Here, Marcus Loew, now a character of the Legion of Honor (France, 1926) was living happily with his sons, who are executives in his organizations, his wife and his sons' wives when his heart failed him Monday morning.

SIX PLANES READY FOR OCEAN FLIGHT

CHARLES H. LEVINE REACHES AIRPORT

Cranwell, England, September 6.—(Tuesday)—Charles H. Levine,

American trans-Atlantic flier, arrived at the Cranwell airfield at 5:30 o'clock this morning, giving rise to the belief that he was about to start his flight.

Mr. Levine was accompanied by Miss Mabel Bell, wealthy American resident of Paris, whose offer of $25,000 for passage in Levine's plane is said to have been declined.

SIR JOHN CARLING IN HARBOR GRACE

Harbor Grace, N. F., September 5. (P)—The "London-to-London" plane Sir John Carling, piloted by Captain Terry Tully and Lieutenant James Medcalf, landed on the Harbor Grace flying field late today after a flight of nearly 700 miles from Caribou, Maine. Preparations were begun immediately on landing for a take-off on the trans-Atlantic leg of the journey early tomorrow.

Chafing at the interruptions in their flight from London, Ontario, here, due to fog, the fliers intimated that they might not even wait for the work of refueling the monoplane proceeded they said that should weather and other conditions permit they might try a night start.

The plane took off from Washburn, six miles from Caribou, Maine, at 9:49 a. m. today. It was just about 4 o'clock when Sir John Carling made a perfect landing here. For the flight of approximately 680 miles the time was six hours 10 minutes.

Tully and Medcalf said they found excellent conditions all the way. The plane was reported only once during the flight—at Burgoon, on the south coast of Newfoundland, nearly 200 miles from here. From Trinity bay the pilot sighted the Harbor Grace airport and headed straight for the harbor.

Tully and Medcalf were welcomed here by Justice John Casey, acting district judge, and officers of the airport commission, then they announced their plan to proceed without delay for England willing volunteers joined in the work of loading gasoline and oil.

Perfect flying weather prevailed here today and the indications tonight were that it would continue for some time.

GANG OF RUFIANS WHIP FRENCH PILOT

Paris, September 5.—(P)—An Italian stone mason named Rodesco was under arrest tonight and Leon Givon, pilot of the "Bluebird," who has been waiting for favorable weather to hop off on a trans-Atlantic flight to America, was confined to his room as the result of a fight with ruffians near Le Bourget flying field.

The fight occurred last night on a road by which Givon was leaving the field. It was reported that Givon encountered ruffians who taunted him for "lacking courage" to hop off for New York. Givon, offered to prove his courage in a fistie combat and three of the ruffians accepted his wiped out. Loew earned a moderate amount of capital, and decided to get out of the fur business.

Something turned him to showmanship. When David Warfield, the actor, pointed out the popular appeal offered by the penny arcade, its chief charm a mechanical peep show provided by dropping a penny in the slot, he took a deep breath and invested his earnings. Warfield, Adolph Zukor and Loew invested in a peep show in Union square. The pennies rolled in.

Pennies Plenty.

In 1901 they dissolved the partnership and formed an organization with $100,000 capital, opening penny arcades in New York and Cincinnati. Everything was lovely until, as the velvet craze ruined the fur business, the new-fangled crude motion pictures of one reel threatened the peep-show industry. Loew knew what to do this time.

He promptly introduced the motion pictures into his arcades. Then he let the peep-show die a natural death and was in on the ground floor of the new industry, which was called nickelodeons.

Loew, like other pioneer exhibitors, resorted to renting vacant stores, placing chairs for 100 or 200 spectators, and calling it "Dreamland" and similar fanciful names. In a few months he had several stores thriving in New York city.

Presently he decided picture films alone, in their crude condition, were not sufficient as a continuous drawing power in his improvised nickelodeons.

He experimented with hiring jobless actors to recite pieces, sing and go into the "Royal" respectfully.

This hunch was so good it is still good.

Amusement Staple.

Loew had begun to perceive that amusement was a staple commodity, like green groceries. He also concluded that, while Barnum and Rickard had their following, the family trade brought amusements like they bought navy beans, with a single eye on getting their money's worth.

PLANES ARE READY FOR OCEAN HOP.

Old Orchard, Maine, September 5. (P)—Two trans-Atlantic airplanes squatted on the Maine seacoast tonight, prepared to hop off early Tuesday.

Impatient at delays which have held the Fokker monoplane Old Glory from its start for home from here for two days, Phil Wood, navigator of the Canadian monoplane Royal Windsor, announced that he and "Duke" Schiller, his pilot, would hop off directly for Windsor, England, at dawn tomorrow.

He first had planned to hop with the Old Glory to take advantage of the radio which the American plane carries, but two days of delay caused him suddenly to change plans especially after learning that his rival Canadian plane, the Sir John Carling, had resumed its flight from London, Ontario, to London, England, with a hop from Caribou to Harbor Grace, Newfoundland.

The Old Glory, which arrived here Saturday from Roosevelt field, has been hung up by the delayed arrival of its complete load of gasoline and reluctance of its backer, William Randolph Hearst, to permit a take-off until the government had ok'd the machine. Both difficulties were believed to have been smoothed out today, but Phil Payne, the flight director, postponed the take-off until tomorrow.

Due to tide conditions on the beach here, the Old Glory probably will not take to the air until some time tomorrow afternoon.

MacINTOSH IS READY TO HOP OFF TODAY.

Dublin, September 5.—(United News).—Capt. R. H. MacIntosh hoped tonight that the weather would be good enough to permit him to start his Dublin-Philadelphia flight from Baldonnel flying field Tuesday.

FATIGUING PUBLIC PATIENCE.

There is no excuse, and no justification for the existing spirit of "passing the buck" from one group to another in the matter of getting all the preliminary arrangements made for the beginning of the viaduct construction program.

This business of playing the Alphonso and Gaston game not only gets nowhere, but it fatigues public patience.

The railroad executives are ready to begin lowering the tracks. They have said so but they will not begin until all financial arrangements are completed.

Unless this work is shortly begun there will be further and indefinite delays. In the meantime there is a daily "passing of the buck" as to the cause of the delay.

There are no legal entanglements. There are no material differences to adjust.

What is to be done should be done at once.

The people of Atlanta are sick and tired of delays, dilly-dallying, and buck passing. They voted the bonds nearly two years ago. Now they want action.

AGRICULTURAL ENGINEERS.

Other branches of productivity, such as the various lines of industry, have engineers, so why not farmers?

Anyway the American Society of Agricultural Engineers has been created.

And it has submitted to the president a number of recommendations. They appear to be sound, directed toward the formation of such a group of men who know, study and analyze farm problems without political incentives.

These engineers devote their studies to lowering production costs by efficiency in operation, and to marketing by systematic distribution.

All of which is refreshing, even if their specific programs are more theoretical than practical.

Farmers cannot be organized like industry. They are, as a whole more skeptical and suspicious of each other. They are not team workers like manufacturers.

The great drawback to cooperative marketing is the lack of cooperation. No commodity can be successfully organized with a majority of the producers shooting independently, and, as experience has taught, shooting at the cooperatives.

The innovation is interesting, and any farm relief movement that has economic welfare rather than politics as a foundation is deserving of serious thought.

THE LAW'S DELAY.

On this page is a communication from Moultrie Hitt, former Georgian and now a prominent lawyer of Washington, which deals with the laxity of criminal law administration in this country. He agrees that there is nothing of greater importance before the country today than a reform in our criminal procedure such as England has made by the elimination of technicalities and the limitation of appeals.

The failure in the administration of criminal laws in America is not confined to any one state. It is general. We have seen it in Georgia. Any shrewd lawyer can not only defer indefinitely, by the employment of technicalities, the sentence of a court, but he can in perhaps a majority of cases actually cheat the law, and make a mockery of the trial by jury system.

The trouble is—just as Chief Justice Taft has said—the state legislatures have an element of lawyer-politicians who deliberately make and protect laws that give criminals the opportunity for delays in the execution of sentences, and for the evasion of penalties imposed.

Such laws give the lawyers of the element named the opportunity to prolong cases, and profit thereby.

As Mr. Hitt aptly says, this is a problem that needs to arouse the general public from its apathy.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

"Divine Knockout."

Gleaming white shoulders on which diamonds sparkle and pearls glisten form a halo of femininity around the ring at every boxing match in Paris. Fifty per cent of the spectators on the ring-side are women. And the harder the fight the more they enjoy it, although they may gasp and shriek and clutch at their male companions coat sleeve while the match is going on. What is it that excites woman's interest in such fights? Some well-known Parisiennes have revealed the secret. An actress explains: "Those fine white bodies, gleaming in the ring light, they fascinate the third of clashing bodies. The marvelous, the divine knockout, the contrast of black dinner jackets, pearls, women's evening dresses making a dazzling crown for the ring, placed in a luminous mist, in which the sea of faces seems to melt into one composite human expression of anguish." A woman writer says: "The blood comes me to vibrate, I seem to feel every blow. The whole setting seems to disappear when the fight begins. I am in the first round, I feel myself a favorite (there is always one handsomer than the other) then I suffer with him, encourage him, mentally aid him."

Americans appear to be welcomed now in Russia and to be treated by the soviet authorities with considerable consideration. Of course, it may be reasonably believed that they are kept away as far as possible from all that is squalid and inhuman in the bolshevik regime; but on the whole their reports point to a trend toward better things. The very disposition of the extremists, however, is still manifest, as witness the grumbling of the central communist committee in protest against a state that "the world's working masses are becoming less responsive to bolshevik agitation and are drifting to the right."

Children's Police For Holland.

Holland has a special body of "Children's police" in six of its principal cities, says a press dispatch. In Amsterdam the department is administered by a chief and a number of officers who constitute a regularly appointed, uniformed police force. Their duties comprise supervision of children's street trading and begging, investigation of unsatisfactory home conditions and guardianship, truancy, child delinquencies and attendance at juvenile courts. They are also in touch with child welfare societies and reformatory institutions. Unfortunately for the Dutch Huckleberries and Sawyers children's police do not mean that children act as policemen.

Mystery of Waterloo.

English historians are again showing some interest in the old question who might have been the man who suddenly turned up as a Waterloo volunteer as a dispatch rider. But they are no nearer now than they were 100 years ago. The incident was described once by Lord Wellington as a dispatch rider. The man was left alone, his aides-de-camp having been dispatched with messages. A gentleman in plain clothes came up to him and said, "Can I be of use, sir?" The duke looked at him and replied, "Yes, take this pencil note to the commanding officer, pointing to a regiment in the heat of the engagement. The note was taken and delivered, the bearer galloping through the thick of the fight to the victor's commission. The man was never discovered, according to this version, and the duke Lord Wellington said that it was a dispatch rider who had ever come under his notice, seeing that it was done without prospect of reward." (Copyright, 1927, for The Constitution.)

Criminal Procedure Reform Is a National Problem

Editor Constitution: I fully agree with the Constitution in the editorial note to be drawn from the Sacco-Vanzetti case is the laxity of administration of our criminal laws.

Of course a large part of the technicalities which arise in the administration of the law go back to the early days in the history of England when slight offenses against the property of the ruling classes were so severely punished that the common law judges were led to take very strict and technical views of the laws with the idea of enabling persons charged with offenses to escape, if possible, rather than have to place upon them such severe penalties as the then laws contemplated.

This country has inherited its laws from England, and in the matter of criminal procedure there has been comparatively little change. The problem some 70 years ago, and have largely solved it by reforming the procedure limiting the number and length of appeals, etc.

There is nothing of more importance before the country now, it seems to me, than a similar reform of our criminal law, and it is simply amazing that this country which prides itself on its progressiveness is so backward in this important respect.

I believe that it is going to be necessary for the general public to be aroused from their state of general apathy, in order to bring about such a far-reaching reform.

Ashby Lecture.

"Personality and the Inner Service of Ductless Glands," will be the subject of the first of a series of lectures to be given by Mrs. Rose Mae Ashby, psychologist, Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at 384 Poultry street, S. W. The public is invited.

William S. Brock has enough on his mind trying to break the round-the-world record without two women claiming to be his lawfully wedded wife. When he learns of this he may just continue to loop-the-loop to keep out of their way.

LOOKING AND LISTENING

BY SAM W. SMALL

The Rooster and His Harem Are Worth a Million a Month to Georgia.

It is proverbial that preachers—especially colored ones—are especially partial to chicken meat. The only one of the profession whom I can imagine to have acquired a distinct aversion to the food was the Apostle Peter. That lamentable episode in the courtyard when the cock crowed and the Peter permanently against the whole poultry family.

From my early days when my father's house was "liberty hall" for traveling ministers, that the present-day preacher has inherited none of Peter's prejudice.

Quite to the contrary! I have preachers frequently as guests in my home and can make my "alfalfa diet" that I serve chicken that is not well-liked by them.

I can even pass Cuban "arroz con pollo" to them and they like it as a Georgia housewife loves pollock. And I cannot blame them for "golden fried" and chicken-pie are the things that can sure please my old and jaded palate!

Georgians Are Chicken-Eaters.

The appetites of Georgians run very strongly to chicken meat. That is evidenced by the fact that, independent of home produce and consumption, we spend $18,000,000 a year on the open poultry trade. That figures $6 per capita, counting all inhabitants of the state; but, after all, that means about a dozen chickens annually per person.

That is enough money to build us a new and handsome state capital, or nearly six times as much as the present one did.

There is no one able to explain why our Georgia ruralists do not increase their poultry outputs at least to the extent of doubling them.

It would help them greatly in making their farms profitable to add $18,000,000 to $7,000,000 annually to their incomes—and how easily that could be done!

What Our Henneries Need.

In order to make up the annual deficit of home poultry supply we need 2,500,000 more hens on the farms of the state.

That would mean the addition of only a dozen hens to every farm in Georgia. One-fourth of the farms, counting only those with more than a couple of chickens, could easily carry 50 hens more than they now do.

Jersey City.

There are three brothers in our family, including myself, who are married and live in our own homes. A younger brother is a bright chap, employed by a large company and can just about meet expenses. For the last four years he has been steadily increasing his income. Our oldest brother is nearly 50, has an annual income of $50,000 and enjoys every luxury. He is in a position to do as he pleases. As he has been dead for 20 years. He is always talking about practicing Christianity in the home, yet he plays poker and loses from $100 to $150 a week. He has secured good positions for many people and an excellent one for his wife's brother, and he knows how to do it. We do not expect for a moment that he should keep us. Do you not think if charity begins at home, it will spread?

How do you think we should handle this situation?

By standing on your own feet and using your own brains, and not relying on the charity of others. The fatality of family life that all of us are guilty of.

PROBE OF PETTY'S DEATH CONTINUED

Reidsville, N. C., September 5.—(AP) County officials today continued their inquiry into the slaying of J. Smith Petty, former local cotton mill overseer, whose body was found buried in a cellar and for whose death his daughter, Mrs. Alma Petty Catlin, is held.

The body was found in a cellar under the house occupied by Petty and Catlin.

Sheriff J. F. Smith today was silent as to whether or not any one else was suspected in the case, but it was known that until it was determined whether or not more than one person was involved in the killing and burial of Petty months ago, the inquiry would be continued.

Mrs. Catlin, bride of two months, who sat in the county jail stoutly denied any knowledge of the crime with which she is charged, and to which the Rev. Thomas Pardue testified at the coroner's inquest that she had confessed to him during a revival meeting at his church some months ago.

Petty's body was buried in a local cemetery yesterday. The services were conducted by the Rev. Thomas Pardue, pastor of the local church. Petty's body was found buried three feet under a pile of coal after deputy

Health Talks

ST. DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

MUSCLES YOU SHOULD KNOW. 1.—THE EATING MUSCLE.

Throughout the length of the alimentary canal the thickness of the canal wall consists mainly of involuntary muscle, one layer of the muscle fibers being circular or spiral, another layer being longitudinal in arrangement. All of this alimentary muscle is under the control of the autonomic or involuntary ("sympathetic") nervous mechanism right up to and including the muscles of the stomach and intestines and hence not directly influenced by the will. From the great relative amount of this muscle in the alimentary tube it is evident that movement of the tube and manipulation of the contents must be an important part of the digestive process. And from the fact that the action of this vast digestive muscle equipment is entirely controlled by the unconscious portion of the nervous mechanism it should be subject to the same influences that control regulation or interference of the will. Even the mastication and insalivation of food in the mouth, the hard to do everything for John, is normally an automatic process and probably it is wise in eating to keep one's mind on any other pleasant subject than the act of eating. Fletcher's teachings were unfortunately not based on sound physiology—Fletcher knew nothing of physiology—and such physical "eccentricities" as he undoubtedly gained from practicing the peculiar tenets of his creed may be ascribed rather to temperance than to measurement.

The special function of the eating muscle is peristalsis, a forbidding name, perhaps, but a jolly good thing for health. Once the swallowing impulse comes, and this impulse is normally irresistible, all further manipulation of the food morsel is by peristalsis, going down or coming up.

The normal direction of the peristaltic propulsive movement is downward, but often the mechanism of peristalsis is reversed, and that's not good. For instance, "acid reflux" is commonly due to the regurgitation of the normally acid chyme (food in process of digestion in the stomach) into the esophagus, and this is a very common cause of heartburn.

Another common cause of reversed peristalsis is a "dark brown taste" and a furred tongue, which is due to an inability in the unhappy throes of mal de mer, known to the trade as seasickness, reversed peristalsis is a ruling factor and not at all a spectacular ailment.

As already mentioned, peristalsis is controlled by the autonomic or unconscious portion of the nervous system. It is not governed by the will or mind, but it is readily influenced by the temperamental, emotional and the conscious impulse. Like all delicate machinery, the eating muscle has not only starting but also inhibiting or braking equipment, all automatically controlled. One of the principles of the autonomic nervous system is that of the "fight or flight" reaction, and in the case of the eating muscle, the "fight or flight" reaction is to disarrange the delicate balance of action and inhibition and thus produce a fault in the mechanism of the eating muscle.

The layman indulging a craving for laxatives is like a mischievous child playing with machinery, the starting or braking mechanism of an automobile.

The eating muscle rarely fails to acquit itself with satisfaction if not subjected to unwise interference.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. Anglo-Neurotic Edema.

Is angio-neurotic edema a new disease which very recently has been known? What are the symptoms? Do attacks occur frequently and can something be done to stop them? What are the best known remedies? (L. J. F.)

Answer.—Giant hives is the common name. It is an old disease or disturbance about which practically nothing is known. It is a very rare disease, and very few cases are known. It is a very rare disease, and very few cases are known. It is a very rare disease, and very few cases are known.

White Flour and Gluten Flour.

Can you tell me the nutritive value of gluten flour as compared with ordinary white flour? Does the government issue any books containing the nutritive value of foods without sugar or starch? (Mrs. E. E.)

Answer.—The United States department of agriculture issues a pamphlet entitled "The Chemical Composition of Food Materials," which contains the nutritive value of many foods. It is a very valuable book, and is available for free to all who apply to the nearest government printing office.

Hospital for Tuberculosis Patients.

Are there any free sanatoriums for people suffering with tuberculosis? If not, approximately how much will it cost per month to stay at one? (L. J. F.)

Answer.—Most states and many cities maintain free hospitals or sanatoriums for tuberculosis patients who are unable to pay. Your nearest health department or city or state for your admission to such a hospital. Or if you have no money, apply to the health department yourself.

Not Superfluous.

Please tell me how to remove superfluous hair from under the arms and also how to stop armpit perspiration. (G. A. L.)

Answer.—Hair naturally grows in the armpits. A safety razor is the best way to remove it if you must remove it. Check sweating in the armpits with a solution of half an ounce aluminum chloride in three ounces of water. (Copyright, 1927, for The Constitution.)

TRAIN HITS AUTO; INFANT KILLED; MOTHER IS HURT

Grand Bay, Ala., September 5.—(AP) While returning to their home in Biloxi yesterday afternoon after spending the day at Bayou La Batre, the infant of Mr. and Mrs. S. Daluhusa was killed and Mrs. Daluhusa seriously injured when their car was struck by a train at the Main street crossing here.

Daluhusa, who was driving the car, suffered lacerations and bruises about the face and body. The other occupants of the car, Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Baccieux, also of Biloxi, were not injured.

The accident occurred, according to authorities, when the automobile stalled on the track. Daluhusa said he saw the train approaching, but thought he had time to cross the tracks before it reached the crossing. Becoming excited just as the machine rolled upon the tracks, he applied the brakes and the car stopped.

Witnesses said the train was in clear view when Daluhusa started across the tracks. The engineer blew the whistle and the train stopped. While doing this service, the salesman talked pleasantly about taking snap-shots and although he was been taking for years 15 years, he

You Aren't Important If You Think It Necessary To Get Important

By Robert Quillen

There are two reasons for being friendly, both of them good. In the first place, the greater part of the world's happiness and unhappiness is made by human contacts.

You meet a man who is surly and ungracious, and something shrivels up inside you. If he offers a hand, it reminds you of a deceased fish. He depresses and burdens you.

And you, of course, if you function in the same way, have the same effect on other people. You are a liability to the human race.

This doesn't mean that you should go about slapping people on the back and calling them "Old Timer" and wrapping damp fingers about their hands; but it does mean that the minimum of good sportsmanship in a world where every man's success or failure depends in some measure on the way he is treated requires of you a friendly and tolerant spirit.

There is another and more selfish reason for being decent.

When children borrow the garments of their elders and play grown-ups they never act as grown-ups do. They are ignorant of the art of being decent. They are ignorant of the thing, because exaggeration is necessary to make them feel as important as grown-ups feel.

The same thing is true of nobodies who wish to appear somebody. The very fact that they wish to appear what they aren't is a confession that they aren't anything worth while.

But they make further confession. In the effort to feel important they cultivate discourtesy. They do not grow at servants and waiters to impress these, but to impress themselves.

And the very fact of their discourtesy is proof that they need constant assurance of their own importance lest they lose faith in it.

Thus ill manners defeat their own end, and in the very act of trying to seem important one demonstrates beyond question he is not.

YOUR BOY AND YOUR GIRL

BY ARTHUR DEAN, SC. D.

A FATHER TO A SCHOOL PRINCIPAL.

Dear Principal: My wife, I understand, wrote to Miss Brown about our son, John, and I feel it incumbent on me to write you another side of the story.

I, too, am tremendously interested in my son and his education. I never had any education and every parent wants his child to do better than he has done. I am not an exception.

But John does not seem to like school very well. I have watched him at home and observed his study habits, or rather the lack of them. The least thing diverts his attention. Some days he comes home and says he has no home work to do. Other days he comes loaded down with books, some of which I observe he never opens.

I try hard to do everything for John. I give him practically everything he asks for in the way of money, although I observe he never opens a book. I have given him a new bicycle, a new car, a new house, and a new school. I have given him a new school, and a new school, and a new school.

John is anxious to become an aviator and is leaning me to let him go away to school to study the flying game. He has been reading about "Lindy" and I suppose got all stirred up. I want him to finish high school and get a diploma. I do not think he likes to study and I must say I cannot see that he is mentally brilliant. I think he needs to be sat on, but every time I sit on him at home there is always a big fuss.

Lately he has gotten into the habit of staying out nights. When I gave him a radio he promised to come in every night and let me hear it. I do not think he is doing this. I do not think he is doing this. I do not think he is doing this.

Here are some practical suggestions to aid John's study habits:

1. Give John a place in which to study. No boy can study and listen at the same time to a music box, radio jazz, or any other kind of music.

2. Get into close contact with his teachers on various subjects to ascertain whether or not these subjects require home study and how much.

3. John should study with intent to learn, remember and to use, and forget that he is studying for teachers. As a matter of fact he is working for himself and no one else.

4. John should get the meaning of a problem before he tries to solve it. He should read it over until he has ascertained the things required and the things given. He should stop "needing" and often should stop memorizing. But always think.

5. Certain things have to be committed to memory, such as formulas, technical terms, dates, definitions, but John should be sure he understands these things while he is memorizing them.

Gladly will this school do everything it can for John. But the biggest thing it can do is to get into John's mind and all it is John's job. Sincerely yours,

A FATHER.

Dear Father: I was very glad, indeed, to receive your letter and I think I understand the situation pretty closely. John enters the high school with ordinary white flour. I do not think he likes to study and I must say I cannot see that he is mentally brilliant. I think he needs to be sat on, but every time I sit on him at home there is always a big fuss.

Lately he has gotten into the habit of staying out nights. When I gave him a radio he promised to come in every night and let me hear it. I do not think he is doing this. I do not think he is doing this. I do not think he is doing this.

It is the business of this school and its faculty to do everything it can to help him. We must help him make a wise selection of his course of study. I understand he is enrolled, somewhat against his wishes, in the college preparatory course. This is the hardest course in our school and in view of the fact that practically

IN CANADA.

This is written in Digby, Nova Scotia. With shame I confess that I never heard of Digby until a few days ago. What interesting and delightful spots there are on the earth that remain unheard-of by the average individual!

I have been traveling through interesting parts of the Dominion of Canada, our vigorous sister democracy. I would like to pass on to you some of the impressions that have come to me, a stranger in his majesty's most promising young dominion.

Out of my window, as I write, I look upon rolling hills, covered with dense growth of pine and fir. The forest marches down the cold, green water of the Bay of Fundy.

Canadians, as I have been observing them in their cities, villages and country places, seem to me to be the most desirable sort of neighbors. Un-Canadian peace and American peace of mind during the last century or two should go to the peaceful, good-humored neighbors that Providence has given us.

I have never been in Mexico, and the few Mexicans I have ever known have been excellent folk. Nevertheless, I have a feeling that if we had Canadian neighbors to the south of us, all these years, as well as to the north, the peace of the Americans would never have been ruffled from within.

The Canadians, as I see them, are good-humored, polite, enterprising, honest citizens. I find them refreshingly tolerant and forbearing. These qualities are due, in part, to the circumstance that Canadians have learned to live with one another, despite vast diversities in matters of language, religion, culture and traditions.

In Montreal, I received my first pleasant surprise when I bought a roll of film for my camera. The young man who sold me the film asked for my "rental" and I gave him a "rental" of exactly how I was feeling. While doing this service, the salesman talked pleasantly about taking snap-shots and although I have been taking for years 15 years, he

Wayne Wheeler Credited With Success of Movement For National Prohibition

Greatest Recent Victory Came in Retirement of Andrews; Dies On Eve of Bitter Battle.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, September 5.—(United Press.)—Wayne B. Wheeler, who died at Battle Creek, Mich., tonight, will be known to history as the father of national prohibition.

It was his generalship, his knowledge of parliamentary tactics, his ability to spot the weakness of his enemies and drive his spear into their vital that enabled him and the belated group he represented to round-up three-fourths of the states and drive through the constitutional amendment that made John Barleycorn an outlaw.

Wheeler was born in Brookfield, O., November 10, 1869, and was almost 58 years old. He had been in bad health for more than a year and his waning vitality was further sapped by the tragic death of his wife and father-in-law a few weeks ago.

Final Savage Attack.
Almost up to the day of his death he kept his fingers on the prohibition issue, keeping advised of developments through his Washington office and telegraphing statements from his summer home to the public here. His last public appearance was at the congress of the world league against alcoholism at Winona Lake, Ind., a few weeks ago, where he made one of his most savage attacks on the liquor interests.

Wheeler was a poor boy and started working his way through Oberlin college in Ohio. He became interested in the old temperance movement while still in school and from there went directly into prohibition work as field secretary of the Ohio Anti-Saloon league. His ability in local option fights quickly attracted the attention of the leaders of the National Anti-Saloon league, which had headquarters at Westernville, O., and finally he was made general counsel and legislative superintendent of the league with headquarters in Washington.

His office faced on the capitol grounds where he was literally on call for the cause of prohibition. He had lookouts in the house and senate galleries at all times and whenever prohibition came up unexpectedly a telephone call to Wheeler's office brought the prohibition generalissimo hurrying to the capitol grounds.

Quick conference with his friends among the legislators enabled him always to follow up at once with a counter-attack.

Eternal Vigilance.
It was this eternal vigilance, quick seizing of opportunities, the ability to instantly take advantage of any opening and drive back a counter-attack that enabled Wheeler to put through a congress full of men who drank the drastic Volstead act and the anti-beer bills and other supplementary enforcement measures.

Wheeler's bitterest enemies, and they are numerous and bitter, paid him tribute as the most masterly legislative agent who ever sought to bend congress to his will. Yet he was the opposite of the typical fanatic. He was rather the attorney at large for prohibition. He was cold and calculating in his strategy. He slashed into opponents with stinging invective, but only when that mode of attack served his end. More often Wheeler won over opponents, and pulled wavering congressmen off the fence by good humor and suave argument. He could put his arm around the most flagrant wet and talk to him like a father. He never lost his temper when he fought. His results are a monument to his ability as an attorney for prohibition.

Wheeler was a lawyer of remarkable ability and had put his talents to work for himself rather than for prohibition. He would have died a rich man. He prosecuted more than 2,000 liquor cases in courts running up to the supreme court.

Wheeler's power came from the influence of the Anti-Saloon league, which he dominated. His organization, constituted largely from Protestant churches with some Catholic representation, gave him a national organization with which to bring pressure on recalcitrant congressmen and senators.

Whenever a congressman in dry territory showed any signs of weakening, all Wheeler had to do was to send a telegram back to his representative in the congressmen's district and within a few hours church people in that district would begin bombarding their congressman. Few of the legislators resisted such pressure. Only senators and congressmen from extremely wet districts dared defy Wayne Wheeler. All of the denunciation in the congress came from these relatively few.

Of all times to die, this is the last that Wheeler probably would have chosen for prohibition is facing one of its big fights. The Anti-Saloon league, under Wheeler's direction, had made elaborate plans to meet the crisis ahead in the 1928 campaign. The candidacy of Al Smith has disturbed dry leaders who fear that should it succeed it might set in a reaction against the present prohibition laws. Recently officers of the Anti-Saloon league met and decided to practically double their budget for the coming campaign. At all costs they intended to prevent the nomination of a wet candidate in either party.

Task Faced Wheeler.
This task would have fallen largely on Wheeler because he knew politicians and their ways better than any other dry. His death will prove a severe loss to the prohibition movement in this respect.

The public will never know how much pressure Wheeler had to resist inside the prohibition movement to venture on all sorts of fanatical movements. Compared to many of the dries in that organization Wheeler was moderate. He always favored half a loaf if the whole loaf were not forthcoming. Having obtained his half, he then went after the rest and usually got it.

Many dries consistently attacked Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, a former distiller. But Wheeler never openly attacked men in office. He believed better results could be obtained by cooperating with the wet rather than by antagonizing them. Sometimes he criticized policies of Brigadier General L. C. Andrews, recently in charge of enforcement, but mostly his opposition was under cover.

His Biggest Victory.
The removal of Andrews was the biggest victory Wheeler has to his credit in recent years. At the same time he failed to get for A. A. Haves retained a prohibition commissioner. Despite the constant attacks of the wets, Wheeler was able to keep the inside affairs of the Anti-Saloon league protected from investigation until Senator James A. Reed, Missouri, democrat, started on the Pennsylvania and Illinois senatorial investigations. The league had always stood as a non-political body and as such was not obliged to make public financial statements. But the league was active against Vire in Pennsylvania and this gave Reed an opportunity to call Wheeler to the stand and force the opening of the league's

Piggly Wiggly Employees Prove Value Of Self Service in Picnic at Idlewood

"Piggly Wiggly" means "self-service," and so these happy employees of the celebrated national chain of stores are helping themselves to plenty of good things to eat at the Piggly Wiggly picnic at Idlewood Monday. The top picture shows the "feed" under way, while to the lower left is shown Harry Brown, district manager of the company, who is giving a demonstration to the sack race contestants. Katherine and Mae Reneau, of 302 Home Park avenue, and Mrs. Ray Gould, of Montgomery, sisters, held a cake-eating contest between themselves in the lower right hand picture.

Monday was a red-letter day in the calendar of the gent who smiles engagingly from behind the Piggly Wiggly counter as he weighs up your sugar. In addition to being Labor day and a holiday, it marked the annual Piggly Wiggly outing and picnic.

Headed by Harry Brown, the genial district manager of the well-known chain grocery, Piggly Wiggly men and their wives and sweethearts, a total of about 1,000, were out to Idlewood and had a big first followed by numerous interesting contests.

A cheering contest between managers and checkers, won by A. B. McElroy; a 50-yard dash by the meat department employees, won by L. Lunsford; a sack race for boys under 12 years was won by Floyd Moody; a sack race, won by W. C. Barrett; cake-eating contest for men, won by Jim Roberts; a three-legged race, won by Robert McWilliams and L. L. Swamy; a cracker-eating contest for women, won by Mrs. L. W. Rust; broad jump, won by J. T. Bennett; buck dance event, won by Kelly Harwell; waltz contest, won by N. C. Cloutier and Miss Elizabeth Rogers; and Charleston, won by Joe Jenkins.

Handsome prizes were awarded each of these winners. The contests were staged in the afternoon, and at night dancing and swimming were enjoyed.

During the morning a baseball game at Piedmont park between two Piggly Wiggly teams was won by the nine headed by W. A. Howell.

Jersey, a vigorous opponent of the dry cause, issued the following statement: "The sudden death of Dr. Wheeler removes from the dry fold of America a dauntless and uncompromising leader of prohibition thought. While the doctor and his wife were apart on the question of the eighteenth amendment and Volsteadism and the times indulged in heated and vitriolic debate on the pros and cons of prohibition enforcement, I always admired him for his conviction and earnest endeavor to dry up America."

"I love and respect a fighter, whether he agrees with me or not," and Dr. Wheeler was an inveterate fighter.

Redfern circled about the ship for some time, it reported, and dropped five notes, three of which sought directions.

Headed Toward Land.
He last was seen, officers said, heading in the direction of the Venezuelan mainland, 165 miles away. Between him and the mainland was a group of islands, but 100 miles from the point where he was sighted by the ship.

Officers expressed the opinion that Redfern had either reached the mainland or had landed on one of the islands between the ship and the continent.

Breakfasts That "Stand By" You
Quaker Oats Supplies Vigor to Speed up Your Mornings

NOURISHING breakfasts of well-balanced food are now being widely urged by authorities as an important aid to business success of adults, and physical and mental development of school children.

Some 70% of the day's important work in the business world, it is now known, falls into the four morning hours, 80% of the important school work, in thousands of schools and colleges recently investigated, including Princeton, Harvard, most state universities and public schools, falls in the same period.

To be right mornings, you must eat right food; meaning rightly balanced, complete food.

Thus Quaker Oats—excellent balanced in protein, carbohydrates, minerals, vitamins "B" and the bulk that makes laxatives seldom needed—is the world's dietetic urge. Savory, delicious food that "stands by" you through the morning. No other cereal compares. Always remember that.

Au Spain, Trinidad, to Kingston, Jamaica, when the plane was sighted.

At the time the plane was sighted the ship was in latitude 13.7 north and longitude 60.37 west.

The plane descended to within hailing distance of the deck and circled back over the ship, dropping a note enclosed in a round pasteboard box.

The note read: "Please point ship toward nearest land."

Apparently he was not satisfied that the ship's officers had understood the note, they said, and he dropped a second note before his request could be complied with. A boat had been lowered and the first note was recovered before the second landed in the water.

The second landed in the water near the boat, and W. T. Notwet, fireman on the Christian Kroeg, leaped overboard and procured it. The second note read:

"Point ship toward nearest land and wave one time for each 100 miles distance."

A third note picked up by the boat was similar to the other and was signed "Redfern, thanks."

The ship turned her bow toward the west, where 100 miles away lay the group of islands of which the Cayo Grande and El Roque are the largest. These islands are 65 miles west of Venezuela.

In addition, in waving a flag to indicate the distance to nearest land, the ship sounded two blasts on its whistle. The aviator circled about the ship several other times before turning his nose toward the west, officers said.

The weather was splendid for flying, they reported.

There was no question about the identity of the plane, officers of the Christian Kroeg said. They estimated that the plane circled about the ship for more than 50 minutes. The ship's log recorded the name "Brunswick-Brazil," taken from the "Brunswick-Brazil" inscription on the fuselage of the airplane. The numbers "NX-73" also was noted in the ship's log.

Circled Ship.
After circling the ship the last time, Redfern dipped his wings in thanks and headed his plane toward the mainland, in the direction indicated by the ship.

Officers said that there appeared to be no trouble with the mechanism of the plane, and that it apparently had plenty of gasoline. The ship had a cargo of gasoline stored in drums on the deck at the time.

The nearest land from the ship when Redfern was sighted was the island of El Roque, about two miles long, on which is located a small fishing village. The island of Cayo Grande is somewhat larger. Neither, however, ship's officers said, would have supplied gasoline had the plane been in need of fuel.

agents to handle a proposition like that."

Mr. Lowman said he had received hundreds of letters from people of the state urging attention to "what are ordinarily looked upon as police court matters."

Most of them, he added, complained that "John or Joe did not bring home his pay last week," "he used it for drink," "we have no food to eat."

"That is the kind of work that would now be done by your police officers if Governor Smith had not signed the repeal bill," he asserted.

Rum row, he continued, had disappeared from New York harbor, and the greatest trouble now was being experienced off Florida, where "rum bounds have recently said they would kill two coast guardsmen for every rum runner who is shot."

"I want to place my money on the coast guard," he said.

The assistant secretary said that more than 150 stills had been put out of business in New York state in the last two months, and asked his audience to "write to Lowman at Washington" if they answered your letter right away" if they discovered a still or brewers.

KENTUCKY STATE FAIR IS PLACED ON PARALYSIS BAN

Louisville, Ky., September 5.—(AP)—Dr. A. T. McCormick, state health officer, today issued a statement urging extreme care to prevent spread of the infantile paralysis epidemic in Kentucky and warned parents not to bring children under 16 to the state fair, which will be opened here September 12.

Stating that most of the cases have occurred in the eastern counties along the line of the eastern Dixie highway and in Davies and Muhlenburg counties in western Kentucky, Dr. McCormick urged that children under 16 be kept at home and away from all picnics, schools, Sunday schools and motion picture shows and other assemblies until two weeks after the last case has occurred in their county.

Cotton, Key Cities And The Citizens & Southern

The South Atlantic States (including Alabama and Kentucky) delivered 5,673,000 bales of cotton during the 1926-1927 season.

The Georgia crop amounted to 1,496,105 bales. And the six "Key Cities" of Georgia in which The Citizens and Southern National Bank has offices, listed receipts amounting to 2,225,127 bales, nearly one half of the total for the Southeast.

When cotton calls for financing, cotton dealers, manufacturers and bankers naturally call on the Citizens and Southern, the largest national bank in the South, with offices in each of the "Key Cities," connected by private wire facilities instantly available to handle cotton drafts and collections.

WHEELER DIES

Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon league, who died yesterday at Battle Creek, Michigan.

WAYNE B. WHEELER PASSES IN MICHIGAN

er home, which also was indirectly the cause of the death of her father. Seeing his daughter rush into a room, her clothing in flames, the aged man was stricken with a heart attack which proved fatal.

The dry leader had just returned from Cleveland, where the funerals of his wife and father-in-law were held, when he was taken ill. His condition was not thought serious until his removal to the hospital. Even then physicians did not consider his condition grave.

Dynamic Character.
The dynamic character of Wayne B. Wheeler, for years past its shadow over everyone of the bitter fights that have waged around prohibition and its enforcement in the United States, because his name had come to mean prohibition in its every sense.

Racked by the Anti-Saloon league and the vast religious organizations supporting it, Mr. Wheeler fought long and stubbornly against every effort to modify those enactments.

Typifying, as he did, the very spirit of the dries, Wheeler took the leadership around the halls of congress, about the capitol, and even at the white house in opposition to nearly every move by legislative, administrative or executive branches of the government which he thought would disturb the dry balance which he and his co-workers had set up.

It has been said that Wheeler was abused for his activities by the wets, but that his energetic fighting qualities had at least earned the secret admiration of some of them. While the wets heaped about his head an unprecedented quantity of stinging phrases, the dry leader worked untiringly to put more teeth into the enforcement act which they denounced so bitterly.

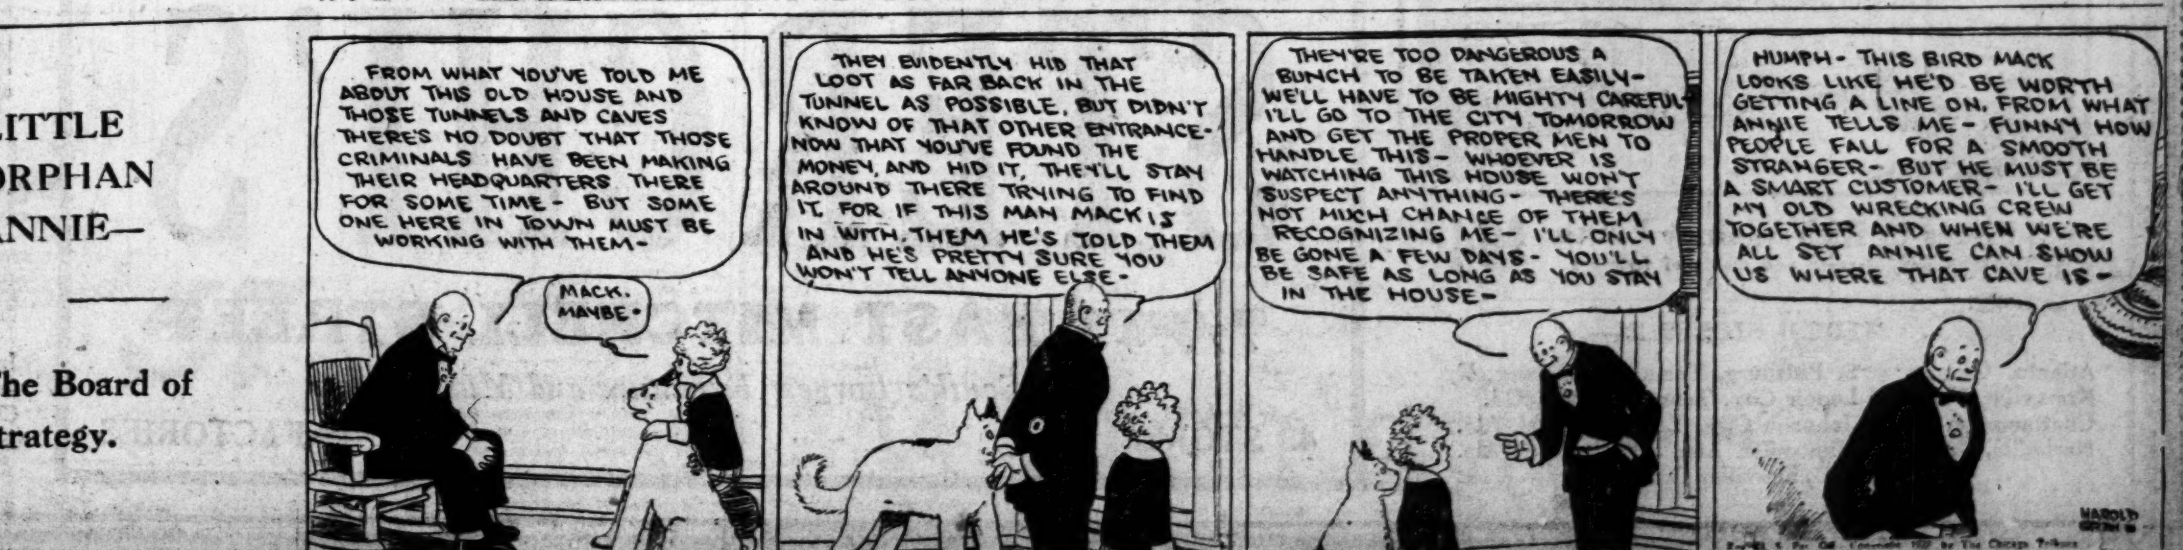

Although ostensibly the Anti-Saloon league general counsel was merely the instrument of the league, so far as Washington was concerned, Wheeler was the league, and in his activities there he was credited with wielding an enormous influence on legislation affecting the dry cause.

The dry leader was born at Brookfield, Ohio, on November 10, 1869. He was a graduate of Oberlin college and held degrees from that school, as well as Muskingum college and Western Reserve university. He was married to Ella B. Candy, of Columbus, Ohio, in 1901, and they had three children, Robert Wayne, Donald Hyde and Joseph Candy. The tragic death of his wife in a fire in his home was a stunning blow to him.

He began temperance work while still at college and was a member of many organizations interested in prohibition.

Annual Labor Day Dinner-Dance Is Brilliant Event at Club Roof

Inaugurating the fall social gaieties and marking the beginning of a season which bids fair to be among the most brilliant of recent years, the Capital City Club entertained at an elaborate Labor day dinner-dance Monday evening, society assembling for the event on the attractive roof garden of the club.

Hedged in by boxes of blooming shrubs and brightly-tinted fall flowers, the roof garden presented an attractive scene, forming a charming background for the smart autumn toilettes worn by the feminine contingent. Dinner was served at 8:30 o'clock from beautifully appointed tables adorned with masses of asters, dahlias, roses and golden rods. A number of visitors added interest and gaiety to the occasion, which has become an annual custom, this popular club having observed this holiday for many years.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Allen were hosts at a large party, including Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Kline, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Le Roux and Mr. and Mrs. John E. Smith.

Mrs. L. W. Robert, Jr., entertained a group of friends, covering being placed for Major and Mrs. John Hester, Mr. H. W. Howarth, of Montgomery, Ala.; Dr. J. G. Williams, Pat Atkinson and Mrs. Robert.

Mr. and Mrs. John McCullough,

For Grouchy Husbands

What an old bear he is when he comes home from work in the evenings! Of course he's been working hard all day, and the trip home has probably been trying—but then, you're cheerful and pleasant. You don't realize, perhaps, that it was that cup of RIDGWAYS TEA you stopped for at five o'clock that makes the difference between your temper and his. You don't see any excuse for his biting your head off and growling.

Well, then, tomorrow suppose you try this simple remedy for grouchy husbands that other wives have found works just like a charm. Tomorrow night when he comes home, offer him a freshly brewed cup of RIDGWAYS TEA. Give it to him just as he likes it—with sugar and cream or lemon. He'll probably say he doesn't want it at first. He'll growl just as usual. But as soon as that delicious, stimulating flavor reaches him, he'll change his mind. Two minutes later he'll be a different man. He'll feel warmed and soothed inside. His worries will somehow melt away. He'll feel revived, refreshed, comforted—even cheerful. In another minute he'll beam at you and be his own sweet self again.

Any one of the three perfect blends of RIDGWAYS TEA can do this. Their world-famous flavor and refreshing goodness have saved many a man's temper and many a woman's disposition.

Dr. and Mrs. Franklin Pierce Akers Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary at Reception

Dr. and Mrs. Franklin Pierce Akers, prominent and beloved pioneer Atlantans, who celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Monday at a reception given at the home of their son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William Akers, on The Prado, in Ansley park. They were married in Brunswick, Ga., in 1877 at the home of Mrs. Akers' father, the late Judge Dominick Dillon. Photograph by Brubaker.

Yellow asters, gladioli and the handsomest of dahlias formed the picturesque setting for the golden wedding anniversary of Dr. and Mrs. Franklin Pierce Akers, celebrated Monday evening at the home of their son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William Akers, on The Prado, in Ansley park. Yellow asters overflowing a golden loving cup, forming the central decoration of the handsome table overlaid with imported lace cloth of exquisite design, added to the artistic decorations which featured the shades of orange and gold. Golden mints and cakes carried out the appropriate color scheme.

The lower floor of the handsome home was thrown in a suite forming a picturesque setting for the celebration which marked the fiftieth wedding anniversary of two of the most influential and widely beloved pioneers of Atlanta. The den and living room, banked with summer flowers, the shades of yellow predominating, contributed to the picturesque scene.

LONE SCOUT BACK AFTER ATTENDING NATIONAL MEET

Fit as a fiddle, Preston B. Brown, Georgia delegate to the national Lone Scout rally at Milwaukee, Wis., returned home to Atlanta Monday night after two months spent in touring the eastern United States and attending Lone Scout state rallies en route to and from the national meeting.

Brown, assistant council chief for region six, which includes North and South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, invited the national meeting to Atlanta for next year, but lost when the meeting was awarded to Sheboygan, Wisconsin.

Leaving Atlanta early in July, Brown went to Milwaukee by way of Gastonia, N. C. He returned by way of Cleveland and Washington, attending rallies in several cities.

Crow Tribe, of Atlanta, won second place in the national efficiency contest, Brown said. He announced that the election of grand council chiefs will take place on October 8, entries having closed Monday night.

Oscar H. Benson, national Lone Scout director, will be in Atlanta next week for the biennial meeting of the scout executives of this region, Brown announced. Benson is well known as the founder of the "Four H" clubs.

AUGUST POSTAL RECEIPTS JUMP FOR 16TH YEAR

Record postoffice receipts last month in Atlanta made the sixteenth successive time in as many years that the month of August showed an increase. J. J. Martin, assistant postmaster, stated Monday following completion of the August report. The postal official accompanied the announcement with a forecast of prosperous business for this section during the remainder of the year, resulting from high-priced cotton.

August receipts for 1927 of the Atlanta postoffice tallied $358,625.93, showing an increase of $9,237.67 over the receipts for that month last year. Each August back to 1911 has shown an increase over the previous August, the assistant postmaster stated. Total receipts for the first eight months of this year are $2,961,745.78, against $2,586,853.96 for the same period in 1926.

July and August are the two dull months for business, and hence for postal receipts, which are an accurate barometer of business conditions, Mr. Martin said.

Largely increased postal receipts are anticipated for the remainder of the year, the postoffice executive predicted.

Self Preservation Calls For Insurance Protection

"Self-preservation is the first law of nature"—and it's not at all a bad law. Everyone would do well to protect himself as fully as possible and at the same time to safeguard the welfare of those who are dependent upon him.

Are you protected against the ever-mounting wave of traffic accidents sweeping the country? Is your income guarded against abrupt halt and your family's future assured?

If not, remember that The Constitution offers you the famous $7,500 travel accident policy issued by the North American Insurance company, of Chicago. This old and reliable concern already has paid more than $50,000 in claims to Constitution policyholders.

The policy, which costs only $1.25 per year, provides for payment of sums ranging downward from $7,500 in case of death resulting from certain accidents; heavy cash payment for permanent injuries and $10 weekly indemnity for disability resulting from the same accidents. And the cost is only a fraction of a penny a day.

A train wreck, a crash of automobiles, the speeding wheels of an on-rushing car or a burning building may leave you a victim of the ever-growing wave of accidents today.

In this paper appear regular advertisements supplying full details of the great offer. Watch for them. This $7,500 travel, $2,000 auto and $1,000 pedestrian accident policy is

COOLIDGE MOTORS OVER 5,000 MILES

Rapid City, S. D., September 5.—(AP)—Remainder almost entirely in the Black Hills of South Dakota during his summer vacation, President Coolidge nevertheless has traveled by motor alone in that period almost far enough to have crossed and recrossed the continent.

The five daily trips he has made each week from the state game lodge to the executive office have carried Mr. Coolidge, it is estimated, 3,840 miles by automobile, a new record for himself. He has shown little favor in the past to the motor.

Numerous drives to the fishing grounds and about the hills have added this total to almost 5,000 miles of the summer. In addition it is estimated the numerous state trips he has made to South Dakota cities by railroad have taken him over about 1,015 miles while the rail journey to Yellowstone National park boosted this total to about 2,500 miles.

Today gave the president an opportunity to relax from his incessant traveling. Although he had planned to spend Labor day at the executive office, he cancelled the 34-mile trip from Rapid City to the White House.

At the White House, Mr. Coolidge is expected when he is announced he will come to the Black Hills for the summer. The day was spent quietly at the lodge and last night the band of the Fort Mead, S. D., cavalry station, entertained with a public concert on the front lawn for a brief period.

In Washington, Mr. Coolidge selected the large limousine available for him as his mode of transport. He was expected when he was announced he would come to the Black Hills for the summer. The day was spent quietly at the lodge and last night the band of the Fort Mead, S. D., cavalry station, entertained with a public concert on the front lawn for a brief period.

In his motor travel, Mr. Coolidge has invariably used the new limousine placed at his disposal here and there. The car, which he has had his regular chauffeur, Francis Robinson, to drive him at all times, Robinson has been at the white house since the day of his arrival.

Almost every week the president also has made a trip to one of the many cities nearby, resorting on these occasions to the motor. He has had his regular chauffeur, Francis Robinson, to drive him at all times, Robinson has been at the white house since the day of his arrival.

These trips have carried him into almost every town of western South Dakota. Besides this state, his journey has taken him to Montana, Wyoming, Nebraska, Colorado and Idaho.

The trip to Yellowstone led across Montana and Wyoming.

North Carolina
Elm Is Planted
By Boone Tablet

Fort Boonesborough, Ky., September 5.—(AP)—An elm tree, uprooted from the hills of North Carolina and brought here over the Old Wilderness trail, was replanted this afternoon beside the Boonesborough monument on the banks of the Kentucky river while a great crowd, including many lineal descendants of Daniel Boone and other famous Kentucky frontiersmen, looked on.

Chanted at ceremonies at Asheville, N. C., several days ago, the tree was planted to replace the one that cast its shadow over the first legislative assembly ever held west of the Appalachian mountains, an assembly convened in May, 1775, by Governor Archibald Henderson.

Colonel William Boone Douglas, president of the Boone Family association, and many other descendants of the famous Kentucky pioneer participated in the ceremony incident to the planting today. They had assembled from all parts of the country at Asheville last Friday, preparatory to their pilgrimage over the Wilderness trail to the old fort here, that was built by their famous ancestor.

MORRISON FLAYS CONVENTION PLAN

Chattanooga, Tenn., September 5.—(United Press)—Proposals to abolish primaries and free debate in the senate were criticized by Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, in a Labor day address.

"A tendency toward one-man rule is seen in the present agitation for destruction of the primary system and return to the old convention plan, where states were made and candidates nominated by the few, to be later often endorsed by hand-picked delegates to conventions," Morrison said.

"The same tendency can be seen in the agitation against that group of courageous members of the United States senate who dare to conduct a filibuster to defeat special privilege."

"We understand why the party primaries and free discussion in the senate are opposed. We understand why the cry of 'business efficiency' is raised. The business efficiency that privilege brings for is a system under which the few are re-elected without discussion and without publicity."

"The Teapot Dome case illustrates why the senate is so roundly decried today by men in high places, and who plead for a gag against free discussion on the grounds of alleged business efficiency."

"A member of the senate—the late 'Fighting Bob' La Follette—raised the first alarm. He introduced a resolution that the senate investigate. Immediately every one of the people denounced the Wisconsin senator, but the small senate group continued the fight. After long years of litigation the high courts ruled that the transfer was illegal. The men who were parties to this plot are under charges of criminal conspiracy, the oil lands have been taken from them, and the transfer order has been annulled."

National League Race Tightens As Pittsburgh Loses

Pirates Bow To Cincinnati In Twin Bill

Redmen Take Morning Fair by 8-to-6 Count and Afternoon Tilt 4 to 3.

Pittsburgh, September 5.—(AP) The Cincinnati Reds tightened up the already tight National League pennant race today by taking both ends of a double-header from the Pittsburgh Pirates, whitening down the slender lead of the Reds on first place. The Reds took the morning game, 8 to 6, and the afternoon contest, 4 to 3. The Pirates outbatted the visitors in both games but the Reds connected with the ball when hits counted, generally after expensive misplays by the Pittsburgh infield.

Rixey and Donohue were the winning pitchers. Miljus, Cengros, Hill and Dawson toiled for the Pirates in the first game while Meadows went the entire route in the afternoon. George Kelly started both rallies in the sixth and eighth innings of the morning game and contributed a double which drove in a run in the second contest. Credit for winning the afternoon game went to Everett Purdy, Seattle rookie, who drove out a home run in the first inning after Dreesen had walked.

Lloyd Waner injured a finger in catching a fly in the morning game and was replaced by Cuyler in the second contest.

JOE CANTILLON HAS STROKE OF PARALYSIS

Memphis, Tenn., September 5.—Joe Cantillon, veteran member of the Little Rock ball team and one of the most familiar figures in baseball for many years, suffered a slight stroke of paralysis while sitting on the players' bench at today's game between the Chicago Cubs and Travelers here. Cantillon was assisted to the dressing room and later removed to the Baptist hospital where he was reported as resting very comfortably tonight.

Dr. A. H. Butler, who was attending the game, administered first aid to Cantillon. After Cantillon was taken to the hospital Dr. Butler stated he had had a very mild stroke brought on by high blood pressure. The physician stated that Cantillon's condition was not thought to be serious, but he was advised to remain in bed and have complete rest for a few days.

Public Barred From Training Camp of Jack

Chicago, September 5.—(AP) Obeying the instructions of Manager Leo P. Flynn, Dempsey labored through four rounds of boxing this Labor day afternoon, revealing a condition that elated his admirers.

It was Dempsey's eleventh day of training and the workout, in the opinion of the experts, was the snappiest in which the former world's heavyweight champion has indulged. After the workout, Manager Flynn announced Dempsey would lay off tomorrow and Wednesday, devoting his time to light road work exclusively and plenty of golf, if he chooses to play golf.

When Dempsey resumes boxing Thursday, there will be no more publicity. He will toil in private, with only newspaper correspondents watching the proceedings.

Flynn says Dempsey does not like to work with spectators commenting on his failure to land or his punishment of sparring mates. Flynn wants to coach him carefully in his new style of boxing flat footed and to have Dempsey go through his paces, without attempting to satisfy the spectators who have been paying $1.10 a piece to watch the workouts.

Dempsey took on Allentown Joe Gans, Jack McCann, Oak TBI and Benny Krueger, in the order named, for a round each. He won three rounds and dropped the one to Till. That was because Till was throwing plenty of left hands following the instructions of Manager Flynn and Dempsey was practicing a defense for these thrusts.

Gans was out-scored but escaped unhurt. McCann and Krueger were receivers of a heavy socking and wound up with bleeding faces.

2 UNKNOWN INVADE CAMPS : Detectives Hold One While Jack Has Other at House :

Chicago, September 5.—(AP) Jack Dempsey's camp has a new mascot in the person of a 14-year-old boy, Torr Bondebon, of Lakeland, Fla., who walked, caught rides and worked when he could, to get to Chicago to see the big fighter.

When Dempsey returned from his last workout today, he saw a little ragged, dirty and very tiredurchin being hustled away from the gate by the keeper. Something in the boy's appearance caught Jack's attention.

"Come here, kid," he shouted and the boy sprinted to him, the big fellow put his arm around the lad's shoulder. This was too much for the boy who had known nothing but rebuffs and he began to cry, muddily tears streaking his dirty face. Dempsey soothed him and then got the story of his travels.

The Lakeland schoolhouse burned, forcing two months of vacation and the boy determined to go to Chicago and see Dempsey, his ideal.

When Dempsey resumed boxing Thursday, there will be no more publicity. He will toil in private, with only newspaper correspondents watching the proceedings.

T. H. S. ELEVEN STARTS GRID WORK TODAY

Tech High's Smithies will buckle down this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock to the long grid necessary for the opening of football season. A number of veterans are returning, and with only three outstanding open of 1936 last—Armin Waugh, half; Davis, end, and Rasmussen, guard—Coach Tolbert is looking forward to a much better team than last year.

Hadley, Oliphant, Bardwell and Hutt will do the major part of the ball carrying this fall if last year's performances mean anything. Bardwell was out for two months in 1936 with a broken collar bone, but has recovered entirely, and, barring any more accidents, should be one of the best halves the Smithies have had in several years.

Hadley demonstrated a good backfield man, and will fill that position again. Hutt was one of the finds of the season, and will make the Smithies a good backfield man. Fred Maddox, captain and guard, heads the list of returning linemen, among them Henderson, Gifford, Grubbs, Davis, Tippet, Smith and Statham.

A big bunch of material is coming up from the junior highs and the Tech High coaches are counting upon it to fill the necessary holes. The Smithies have an ambitious schedule, which opens up within a month, and practice in concentrated doses is necessary to get the squad whipped into shape.

Thousands Witness Constitution Swimming Carnival

Piedmont Wins Team Trophy; Records Fall

Local Swimmers Show Good Form in Annual Water Meet.

point honors with nine points each. Charlie Holcomb won the boys' trophy with a score of 10 points and Miss Maud Battle won the women's silver cup with a total of 10 points. The trophy for girls went to Nettie Pearl Stricklin who also had 10 points to her credit. She was closely pressed by Mary Jim Garrett who had nine points.

Schroeder, who placed well among the male swimmers in the 1926 meet, displayed rare form in the short dashes, winning the 50-yard event with ease. In the 100-yard event he got off to a bad start and finished third only to come back in the 220-yard swim to take second.

Rahner, a new swimmer in the Atlanta championship list placed third in the half century sprint but took first honors in the century. He placed second in the back stroke.

Ezell Wins 220. Clinton Ezell, Tech High star, took the 220-yard event with ease while Art Merrill took two seconds and a third out of four events entered.

In the diving, the juniors carried away all the honors despite the fact that they were competing in a senior event. Bill Maier, who won first place, is a stocky young natator of considerable promise and his victory in this event was fully deserved.

Tom Bothwell, another junior who won second place, needs only a bit of training to place him in the class with the best in the south, while Lawrence Black, third-place winner and another junior diver, is a comer. The fact that but one point separated these winners is proof enough that they were all diving well.

A pretty mermaid name, Maud Battle, who swam for Piedmont park, was the individual sensation of the day. She entered three women's events on the race course and took first place in all events. When she was the only senior to report at the tower she naturally won first place in this event also. This fair natator has been invited by the Atlanta Athletic club to try out for the A. C. team and if she improves under expert instruction, as she promises to do, she may be a second Virginia Ashe before many years.

Charlie Holcomb dominated his class as thoroughly as did Miss Battle. This sturdy junior entered two races and won first place in both to take the high point honors.

Nettie Pearl Stricklin, youthful imitator of famous Tenth, entered two events in the girls' division and won both of these with ease. She has a great future in store if she continues to improve. Mary Jim Garrett ran her a close second in points by taking one first, one second and one third in three events entered.

Smoothly Run. The greatest triumph of the day was the work of the Atlanta Athletic club officials, who ran off 15 events in three and one-half hours without even one hitch. Without them the meet would have been a sorry affair, and The Constitution extends its sincere appreciation for the unselfish work of these men.

Led by Al Doonan, the corps of officials was as follows: Scrappy Sullivan, Rufus Bass, Bernard Neal, Bill Murray, Joe Singleton, Ed Murray, Captain Nick Seymour, Bill Haddock, Buster Harris and Gene Baylis. There may be larger meets held in Atlanta in future years, and there may even be greater swimming done, but never will there be a more successful contest than the 1927 city championship.

The results of events in the four classes are as follows:

40-yard dash—First, Schroeder; second,

Two Records Fall Before A. A. C. Stars

Amid all the thrills of a great swimming meet it was the red topknot of J. T. (Red) Holleman which sent the chills running up the backs of thousands of spectators at Piedmont park Monday afternoon.

The diminutive dash star of the Atlanta Athletic club played a dual role in the afternoon's events by crashing his own record in the 220-yard dash and swimming in final position on the Atlanta Athletic club relay team which also broke its own record for the 440-yard relay.

Gene Baylis started the long 440-yard medley grind and Bill Noyes took up the burden at the end of the first 110 yards. He gave the mythical baton to Dick McHenry, who tapped the board as Red Holleman started on the finish. He had to swim the last 110 in almost record time to clip the old mark. Red did just that and as the crowd cheered him on he finished that last lap to cut almost 7 seconds from the old record. The old time was 4:47.2 and the mark made Monday was 4:40.4.

Red played a solo game in the 220 and despite the fact that he had swum the final lap in the relay just a few minutes before, he shaved exactly eight seconds from his own 220-yard record. The former southern mark was 2:40 and he swam the distance Monday in 2:32.

Not satisfied with giving the crowd high blood pressure with these thrilling sprints against time, the A. A. C. sent its two stars to the springboard for an exhibition which was a show in itself. Bill Murray, present southeastern diving champion, and Buster Harris, former champion, "knifed" to the music of cheers before the competition began.

JACKETS BEGIN 1927 PRACTICE GRIND

Once more the sound of the punt rings throughout the stands at Grant field and once more the annual football practice season is on. Pictured above are some of the 1927 Georgia Tech football candidates who gathered at the flats Monday afternoon for the first official workout of the season. Hank Bjorkman is shown handing the boys a few pointers on how to get your man in the upper photo and in the lower picture several of the boys were snapped while going through the early paces.

Vance led all the way. The 75-mile stock car race for six-cylinder models selling under $2,000 was won by Ralph Hepburn. Eddie Hearne finished second; Zeke Meyer was third; Ray Keesh fourth, and Jack Leighton fifth.

Hepburn's average speed was 85.94 miles an hour, and the time of the race 22:21 minutes. Three cars failed to finish.

An Occasion for Doubters.

To any doubter who doesn't believe that swimming is the greatest sport in the world for physical development, let us submit a suggestion that he go and see the next swimming meet that takes place in his neighborhood.

Through all the trials and grief of helping to run off The Constitution's swimming meet at Piedmont park Monday afternoon we were conscious of the fact that out of all the men, women, boys and girls who chattered around that table all afternoon and came proudly to the front for medals, there was not one anemic-looking individual. Perhaps some of the girls had a freckle or two peeking through tanned skin and certainly the boys were brown as berries but that just strengthened the conviction that here were future champions in work and play.

And there was evidence of sportsmanship in that meet Monday which might have gone unnoticed by many. In more than one event it was necessary to swim as many as eight contestants in one heat and not once was a swimmer fouled though it was noticeable that it was difficult to avoid mixups on many occasions.

Grooming Future Champs.

Watching the A. A. C. swimmers in action Monday afternoon while they were entertaining themselves and some 3,000 of the populace by cracking a couple of records, one was constrained to wonder who might take their places when the present members passed from the picture.

And the answer was most apparent as this and that youngster swam to victory in the hotly-contested events in the city championship.

Just for example, there is Maud Battle, who entered all four of the women's events and won all of them. This pretty little girl with the sparkling eyes and the freckled nose will some day hear the plaudits of great throngs and see her name in big type, if she continues to try and train.

Charlie Holcomb is another youth who flashed promises from burning arms as he goes under the wires in the dashes. Charlie is now a U. S. B. star and will make his mark in big time if he tries.

Then there are the Ezells, Blacks, Valentines, Karstons, Stricklins, Smiths, and more than a half dozen others who flashed before the judges in The Constitution's meet Monday who are on the high road to fame in the realm of aquatic.

Competition along with coaching will do the trick for them. The Constitution is furnishing the competition with its annual swimming meets and the Atlanta Athletic club will furnish the coaching if the athletes merit attention.

ROONEY SETS NEW RECORD IN AUTO RACE

Amatol, N. J., September 5.—(AP)—Establishing a new world's record for the distance, Tom Rooney, of Indianapolis, led a field of 14 stock cars over the finish line today to capture the Labor day event for six and eight-cylinder machines at the Atlantic City speedway here. L. L. Corum, finished second and Gil Anderson, third. Both are from Indianapolis. Anderson's average was 93.96 miles in finishing in 1:35:47.

Rooney's time for the 150 miles was 1:33:27 and his average speed 94.30 miles an hour. Corum averaged 94.02 miles in finishing in 1:35:43. Before engine trouble forced him to slacken his speed Anderson, who led for the first 125 miles, set new records of 93.42 miles an hour for 10 miles; 96.35 miles an hour for 25 miles; 96.65 miles an hour for 50 miles, and 95.77 miles an hour for 100 miles.

ANSLEY PARK GOLFERS WIN FROM W. END

The Ansley park golfers staged a double win over their rivals from West End in two Labor day inter-club encounters played Monday. The A team from Ansley park, composed of 14 players, won a three point victory over the West End outfit on the course of the latter, while the Ansley park B team, composed of 12 players, defeated a like aggregation from the rival club on the Ansley park course by the rather one-sided score of 14 points.

The matches were played in four-somes with the Nassau system of scoring being used. This gives one point for the side winning the first nine holes, one point to the team winning the last nine and one point for tie match.

One of the features of the match at West End was a most delicious barbecue. The following are the teams and results:

Jacket Team Gets Started On Long Grind

Aspirants for 1927 Football Honors Put Through Stiff Workout.

BY BEN COTHMAN.

It was hot on Grant field Monday afternoon. And no one knew that fact better than 45 or more husky youngsters, in full grid uniform, going through the first day of football practice at Georgia Tech for the season of 1927.

Intermittent showers around 4 o'clock helped cool things off somewhat.

Coch Alexander and his assistants, Bill Fincher, Don Miller and Hank Bjorkman, got the boys down to work at once, and after about 15 minutes of lecture and limbering up exercises the linesmen were charging, the ends were catching passes and scooping up fumbles and the backs were running around imaginary ends and through imaginary secondaries, with some pass catching thrown in.

Hard Exercises. Miller gave the boys only a few minutes of exercise, but at the end of that time, despite a long summer of hard work, the gridlers were puffing and panting. When you make a big linesman execute steps something on the order of a chorus lady's ace in the hole, and get backfield men standing on the backs of their respective necks, in addition to getting down on the ground and scrambling around something like a man with D. T.'s, it'll make anybody blow—and not about how real estate and business in his home town are booming.

There'll be more of it every afternoon this week and next, beginning at 3:30 o'clock, with the other work getting heavier each day.

Lettermen and likely-looking reserves of last year were dialed out in the new lightweight uniforms, while scrubs were given the old style with blue jerseys. The jerseys of the regulars were the same golden hue with the same familiar big, white block numerals.

A few men were missing, chief among them Papa Hood, left tackle and alternate captain, and George Sprick, of the backfield. Stumpy Thomason also turned up missing.

Divided Up. After the exercises were over, Don Miller got hold of his backs, which cut the squad down considerably, and took them down to one end of the field for a workout, while Elizabeth, a lady mule, who is the pride and joy of Burton, colored water boy at Tech, looked on in ruminative fashion. Hank Bjorkman went over to one side of the field with enough candidates for end to outfit a half-dozen or more teams. That left the rest of the squad for Bill Fincher to start in on, with the building up of a forward wall as his objective. There were plenty of huskies in the bunch, but they were far from slow in their movements.

Cracked Woman Sought In Probe Of Poison Candy

Kansas City, September 5.—(AP)—Neighborhood quarrels and distorted jealousies were blamed by investigators tonight for an apparent attempt to poison children in a south side neighborhood here by distributing poisoned candy. The police were seeking a woman, perhaps of unbalanced mind, believed to be responsible.

Three boxes of candy containing poisoned chocolate were found by children in the neighborhood, but the apparent attempt to poison was frustrated when the candy was discovered.

Analysis by the city chemist showed the candy had been poisoned with a rat exterminator.

Three persons ill. In a fourth case, however, a box of the candy was sent to the home of Sidney Dills where a Sunday school boy was being held and three persons became ill after eating it.

The box was delivered to the home by a drug store delivery boy who told the police he was given the candy by a woman who had given him 15 cents to deliver the package.

Other recent incidents in the neighborhood led investigators to believe that neighborhood bickerings were the cause.

At the home of Fred Rahner, where one of the boxes was found, tracks were left on the motor driveway and the police officer riding squad had visited the place after a quarrel with a neighbor about a Rhenish child playing on the neighbor's terrace.

Other families in the same block, who live in adjoining houses, are not friendly with the Rahners and have been looking on each others' houses, investigators said.

Anonymous Phone Calls. Anonymous telephone calls discussing neighborhood disputes also had been made, the investigators said.

Children have told parents of an elderly woman who chased them and threatened them with a knife.

While the motive for placing the poisoned candy in the Rahner yard might be traced to neighborhood quarrels, it was said, the reasons for delivery of the box at the Dills' home was not so apparent.

ONE DEAD, THREE SICK FROM EATING PIES. New Orleans, September 5.—(AP)—One child was dead and three others in a critical condition from ptomaine poisoning here today after eating pies purchased at a bakery Saturday night.

The dead child was Henrietta Dendinger, 3.

Herbert Dendinger, 2; Bernadine Bakes, 5; and Fred Plesinger, 11, were in a critical condition.

The pies, eaten by the children late yesterday, were thrown into a chicken house when the children were told that they did not taste good, and none was left for examination. While the children showed no ill effects, the children were violently ill two hours after eating them.

Mobile Takes Thousands See Speed Cards Divide Rouble - Bill From Crackers

Motorcycle and automobile drivers at Lakewood's official celebration of Labor Day Monday piloted their machines about the oval in a series of speed contests, while 35,000, the largest crowd at the park this year, edged them on.

Olen Pickens, Tampa speed devil, drove his Harley the ten miles to win the 10-mile event in 8 minutes 20 seconds over the heavy field.

He was winner of the five-mile event, Jack Hanes and Herschel Pruitt, of Atlanta were second and third, respectively, in both events.

Tex Richards, riding an Indian, lost a special "grudge race" to Hanes in a five-mile race, the three being four minutes and 10 seconds. The fastest mile of the day was scored by Pickens, who lapped the track in 45 seconds.

Rastus "Red" Parrish occupied the track for about 20 minutes after the motorcycle races and before the old Fords had their inning doing stunts on his motor.

"Toots" Morgan, driving the "Spirit of Lakewood" won the two-mile old Ford classic in five minutes. He made the one-mile special race in one minute and 10 seconds, and won the five-mile event.

"Kid" Yancey won second place in the two and ten-mile events, and "Pop" Trimble was third in the five-mile class.

Chicago, September 5.—(AP)—Hanes' air-tight pitching shut out the Chicago Cubs today in the afternoon game of the double-header, and St. Louis won, 2 to 0. The Cubs hammered out a victory over the Cardinals, 6 to 1, in the morning combat.

An overflow crowd this afternoon led to the Cubs' downfall. Chief Hanes drove two balls into the crowd for doubles and each paved the way for a Cardinal run.

With Frisch on base, Hanes hit a double, which was followed by a sacrifice, double. In the seventh Hanes got his second two-bagger, went to third on an infield out and trotted home on a sacrifice.

Marvyn and Orsatti collided in the Cubs' half of the ninth in center field, chasing English's fly. Both fell to the ground and English was awarded a two-bagger. After five minutes to recover they both went with the game.

MRS. H. KYLE RAMSEY WILL BE BURIED TODAY

Funeral services of Mrs. H. Kyle Ramsey, of a Wilcox road address, who was drowned Sunday while swimming near Savannah, will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon from the chapel of Atway & Lowndes, the Rev. Weston Bruner, pastor of the Buckhead Baptist church, officiating. Interment will be in Crest Lawn cemetery.

The body of Mrs. Ramsey arrived in Atlanta Monday night and was taken to the undertaking parlors of Atway & Lowndes pending funeral and interment today.

Mrs. Ramsey was well known locally and was the wife of the national president of the Ku Klux Klan. She was a member of a yacht party that left Savannah about 11 o'clock Sunday morning. At 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon the yacht anchored at St. Catherine's inlet, a few miles from Savannah, and the entire party donned bathing suits for a swim. A strong undertow caught the swimmers and while the men were devoting attention to rescuing two small girls, Mrs. Ramsey and K. A. Watson, of Register, Ga., were swept out to sea. They collapsed before aid could reach them and all signs of life were extinct when the victims were brought to shore. Artificial respiration failed.

The body of Mr. Watson was sent Monday afternoon to Statesboro for interment.

Mrs. Ramsey is survived by her husband, Harry Kyle Ramsey; her father, William Ramsey, of Nicholson, Miss.; two sisters, Mrs. Herman Perkins, of Hattiesburg, Miss., and Miss Lillie Ramsey, of Taylorville, Miss., and a brother, William E. Ramsey, of Piquette, Miss.

MRS. CHAPMAN'S DEATH IS PRONOUNCED SUICIDE

Carbolic acid, self-administered in a successful attempt at suicide, caused the death Sunday of Mrs. F. A. Chapman, 27, of 262 McKennie drive, according to the verdict of the coroner's jury at the inquest Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Chapman, who has been separated from her husband for about four months, was found in a dying condition in her apartment late Sunday afternoon, when F. A. Chapman returned with their child, Donald, whom he had taken for a ride. Mr. Chapman, a railroad engineer, found his wife lying across the bed, a bottle of poison near by. NEGLECTED SLAYERS
OF WOMAN SOUGHT

Kansas City, September 5.—(AP)—A man and woman were sought by police today in connection with the slaying here yesterday of Mrs. Margaret Muehlebach, 62, whose body was found in a vacant apartment of a building owned by her husband, Henry J. Muehlebach.

The couple was said by Jeff Harris, 34, negro janitor, to have been shown the vacant apartment by a woman, Mrs. Muehlebach earlier in the day. Harris said he called Mrs. Muehlebach to the apartment yesterday when the couple sought to give him a check for a month's rent. He said Mrs. Muehlebach came and after showing them the apartment again, called him to bring pen and ink and $97.50 he had collected from other tenants to pay the rent.

She met him in the hall, Harris said, and told him she had rented the apartment to the couple.

When Mrs. Muehlebach's body was found by police, Harris was shown the money was gone and there were evidences of a struggle. Mrs. Muehlebach's son went to the apartment after she had failed to return home.

The victim's husband is a cousin of George Muehlebach, owner of the Kansas City American association baseball club and formerly was one of the owners of the Muehlebach brewery here.

Council Badge
Nil at Spillers,
Magic in Italy

"A prophet is not without honor save in his own country."

That hackneyed phrase was again forcefully impressed on members of city council Monday by A. J. "Quill" Orme, one of the biggest warblers who just returned from an extensive tour of Europe.

Several months ago, before the Atlanta Crackers were relegated to the "lost" columns of the Southern league, Mr. Orme sauntered out to Spiller field. A line "half a mile long" was formed in front of the box office, and after being informed that the police badge of a councilman would admit him "anywhere," he offered it to the ticket taker in exchange for a ticket.

He was abruptly refused admission by an emissary of Bell Spiller, owner of the park.

Following that incident, Mr. Orme discarded the symbol of his office, but when he began packing up for the European tour, he included it among his belongings.

When the party hit Italy, and the Mussolini government with its systematic and machine-like precision began to organize the baggage of all tourists, a happy thought struck Mr. Orme.

He searched the suitcase, found the emblem, pinned it to his suspenders and when the officer arrived to push him through the mill he flashed it with a bold front. It worked.

Mr. Orme, who is a member of the city council, and his entire party were ushered through the lines without further ceremony.

Some of those present attended the Georgia school 50 years ago and had not been at the school since.

Supremacy of Morning Paper

The average person wants his morning newspaper the first thing every morning, and feels lost without it. He wants to know what has happened over the world while he has been asleep. He knows, if he is any sort of an analyst, that the morning paper has first call on 75% of all the news that breaks over the world, and 90% of the news that happens locally.

The morning paper publishes first all the news that comes from noon until after midnight, and it is still news when it reaches the reader.

Give The Constitution the proper change instructions, and you will not miss a single copy of your morning paper.
